NEW YORK (AP)—Masses of shouting antiwar demonstrators were frustrated by Police today in their second attempt to disrupt processing at an armed forces induction center in Lower Manhattan.

Discouraged demonstration leaders were divided on whether to try again Thursday, as planned.

Today's protest was marked by scattered fights between marchers and pedestrians before the demonstration broke up at midmorning.

Unable to break through police barriers, the demonstrators left the induction center at 33 Whitehall St. and joined other bands roving streets in the area, probing in the words of one police official, "for a weak spot."

Nearly a score of arrests were reported by 8 a.m.

The morning demonstration marked the second round of protest aimed at shutting down the center. It was part of a national "Stop the Draft Week" project sponsored by a coalition of some 50 antiwar and civil rights groups.

More than 1,000 persons took part Tuesday. Estimates of the crowd today were put at about 2,000—but an exact determination was made difficult by the moving nature of the demonstration.

Police outnumbered the 1,600 demonstrators who turned out Tuesday for the first of four planned protests at the center. They failed in their attempt to shut down the center but 264 of their number were arrested.

Those included pediatrician Benjamin Spock, poet Alan Ginsberg, former Irish diplomat Conor Cruise O'Brien, critic Susan Sontag, novelist Terry Southern and urban design critic Jane Jacobs.

Estimates of the demonstration's effectiveness varied. Lt. Col. James J. McPoland, commander of the Whitehall St. center called it "a big zero" but a leader of one of the sponsoring groups termed it a "success much greater than we anticipated."

David McReynolds, field secretary for the War Resisters League founded after World War I, said only 50 to 75 arrests had been expected. He found it encouraging that so many were willing to be arrested as a symbolic protest against the draft.

The New York demonstration was part of a so-called "Stop the Draft Week" which included demonstrations in cities from coast to coast beginning Monday.

In Buffalo, N.Y., nine persons, including two young women, were arrested in an antiwar demonstration Tuesday that drew jeers from about 300 counterpicketers from a business school.

There were also counterpicketers at San Fernando Valley State College in Northridge, Calif., where antiwar pickets were protesting the campus presence of Dow Chemical Co. job recruiters.

Tom Frankovich, student body president, said he organized the 250 counterpicketers to "combat bad publicity" resulting from demonstrations by peace groups.

At the University of Iowa in Iowa City, police used tear gas against a mob of students protesting Dow Chemical Co. recruitment. Six persons were arrested.

A silent vigil was carried out by some 50 long-haired demonstrators in Wilmington, Ohio, in support of James R. Wessner Jr., who refused to report for induction there Tuesday as directed. Wessner, a graduate student at the University of California, is married to a granddaughter of Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton.

Council Okays 4 Ordinances In Abbreviated Session

Circleville Council passed four ordinances in an abbreviated session Tuesday, while holding two proposed ordinances to second readings.

Breezing through their evening's agenda in an efficient manner comparatively free from discussion, the councilmen adjourned at 9:15 p.m., a little over an hour after called to order by President Harold Clifton.

The ordinances approved after first readings included one authorizing the safety director, Miller Fissell, to advertise for bids for gasoline for 1968. The gasoline is for use in the police cars.

An ordinance transferring $200 from the general fund to the major street construction and maintenance fund to pay for engineering services was approved.

Percy Raps Criticism Of Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy says "there isn't one shadow of doubt in my mind" that a special fund being raised by his Illinois Republican supporters to meet his office expenses is perfectly right and above board.

Percy said Tuesday that criticism of the $120,000-a-year fund drive is a fact of political life.

"You do what you think is right," he said in an interview. "I would intend to go right ahead and do exactly what I planned on doing."

He said that until he starts using the fund next year he will continue to pay extra office expenses out of his own pocket—an expense he says so far has totaled about $70,000. Percy maintains offices in Washington, Chicago and Centralia, in downstate Illinois.

Senators are not provided with sufficient office allowances, Percy asserted, to do a first-rate job for a state the size of Illinois.

"I'm used to doing an absolutely first-rate job," he added.

Roundtown

CIRCLEVILLE Chief of Police Robert Temple received a letter today which he thought both pertinent and amusing.

It began: "Isn't it odd how certain people will whine and cry when they have to lie down in the beds they make for themselves? If so much of the taxpayer's money didn't have to go into trials and the subsequent housing and feeding of certain people who are forever landing in the clink, it would be possible to fix our jail up in a grand style."

"I'm sure that would be a mistake of the first water — we'd have the freeloaders with us all the time."

It was signed, "A Taxpayer."

The chief would like a new jail and has discussed it with council. The board of visitors of Pickaway County has recommended the present facility in the basement of the city building be abandoned or remodelled.

But the chief noted that even if a new jail were built, it would have a "drunk tank". The only furniture in such a facility would be a wooden or steel bench.

THE post office will remain open Saturdays until 5 p.m. Dec. 9 and 16 to accommodate the large volume of Christmas mail.

CHRISTMAS cards to servicemen overseas must be airmailed no later than Dec. 10 in order to arrive by the holidays.

MILD weather is in store for Pickaway Countians the next four days according to the local weather observer... with the chance of accompanying summer-like showers... a duplication of the weather of a year ago this date.

Curtis LeMay Speaks in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Retired Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, whose backers are pushing him for the Republican presidential nomination, has speaking dates in Ohio Thursday and Friday nights.

He will speak in Columbus Thursday under auspices of a county Young Republicans' group and Friday evening he will speak at Ohio Wesleyan University.

A client who would purchase the property with the intention of building a convalescent home if sewer service were available.

The ordinance contains the stipulations that the owner of the property must pay $1,488.94 sewer assessment, and must assume the expenses of extending the sewer.

Adopted after a first reading was an ordinance authorizing the Circleville - Pickaway County Community Improvement Corporation to act as agent for the city of Circleville.

A similar legal action was taken by county commissioners two weeks ago.

The community improvement corporation has been established as a non-profit organization to provide money at low rates of interest to industry in locating in the community or in expanding existing plants and facilities.

ROBERT Johnson was on hand as a representative of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the corporation, to explain its function.

City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins assured councilmen the ordinance would in no way obligate the city's governing body.

Two ordinances held to a second reading included the proposed building code and a measure which would revert canal land presently held by the city back to the state of Ohio.

The canal land involved is located just off Mound St. a portion of it is leased to Goodchild Construction Co.

Kingsley Taft Runs Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft of the Ohio Supreme Court announced his candidacy Wednesday for a second six-year term as chief justice of the high court.

Taft, a native of Cleveland and now 64 years of age, has been a member of the Supreme Court for 19 years and chief justice for the last five years.

He had practiced law in Cleveland for 20 years prior to his first election to the high court, except while on active duty in the Army for 3½ years during World War II.

He served as a state representative from Cuyahoga County in 1933 and 1934 and was on the Shaker Heights Board of Education 1940-42, and was president of that board in 1942. In 1946 he was elected to the United States Senate for an unexpired term of 59 days.

Meat Inspection Measure Headed For Solons' OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sweeping meat inspection bill, termed by backers a major victory for American housewives, appears headed for congressional approval.

House-Senate conferees agreed Tuesday on terms of the compromise measure to revamp the 60-year-old federal meat inspection law.

It is designed to extend federal standards within the next three years to 15,000 plants not now covered.

The measure now goes back to the House and Senate for expected final approval before being sent to President Johnson. The House may consider it today.

"This is one of the most remarkable victories for the American consumers in recent years," said Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., a cosponsor of the Senate version.

President Johnson said the measure would help guarantee to every American family "that the meat on their tables" is safe and fit to eat.

Betty Furness, special assistant on consumer affairs to President Johnson, credited housewives and the press with spurring passage of what she termed "this wholesome meat bill."

She said the conference action "is the direct result of the housewives' vocal reaction to the graphic coverage by the nation's press."

But Chairman W. R. Poage of the House Agriculture Committee contended the bill was an attempt by Washington to impose federal controls in a matter where states should have the final say.

Poage and Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., were the only conferees who refused to sign the conference report. Poage said he would vote against the measure on the House floor but conceded he felt it would win final approval.

The measure would give states up to two years—three if significant progress has been made—to set up inspection programs for meat produced and sold within their borders. The federal government would pay half the cost of present and new state programs, which would have to be at least equal to federal standards.

But if a state didn't act the federal government could impose its own standards.

Federal regulations now apply only to meat which moves in interstate commerce, exempting about 15 per cent of the slaughtered meat and about 25 per cent of processed meat in the country.

North Vietnam Gives Priority To Food Ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food ships are getting first priority in unloading at North Vietnam's key port of Haiphong, U.S. sources say, fueling speculation the Communist country is feeling the pinch of food scarcity brought on by war.

Intelligence reports say the North Vietnamese rice harvest has been poor for two years and that the food situation may have worsened.

Intensified U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam roads apparently disrupted this year's rice harvest, the sources said.

"They are not starving," said one expert. "But normally they are on close to a subsistence level, and if their food stocks are cut from 10 to 20 per cent, they really have to tighten their belts."

Reports indicate petroleum products make up the largest volume of nonmilitary goods entering North Vietnam through Haiphong. But the unloading of gasoline and oil has rated second to the discharge of cargo ships carrying food.

Authorities declined to say how this intelligence was gathered.

Since last January, Soviet vessels have been hauling increasing amounts of wheat and flour from Vladivostok in Siberia to North Vietnam. And Communist Chinese ships have been carrying rice to Haiphong, sources said.

Priority cargo is getting unloaded within a week, it was indicated. Some food ships have been discharged in as little as five days compared with as many as nine days several months ago.

Steel Price Hikes Stick; See More

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The new wave of steel prices hikes has spread to two more big companies and may move into two more product lines.

Boasts of $5 a ton on cold rolled sheets were made Tuesday by Republic Steel Corp. and Armco Steel Corp. Armco went further, also increasing galvanized sheet and strip by $4 a ton.

Industry sources here feel the boosts on cold rolled sheets, plus the two other items raised by Armco, will spread throughout the industry.

Steels on which prices were increased go into a host of consumer products, including autos and appliances. They also are used in the production of storage tanks and industrial machinery.

Steel industry observers believe the boosts will stick. They feel the Johnson administration's reaction was comparatively mild on the increases on cold rolled sheets, and say the current booming steel market will be able to sustain the boosts.

If all of the increases do hold, it will mean that prices this year will have been boosted on about 80 per cent of all steel shipments. The latest increases pushed prices up about 3 per cent.

Ground Action Most Light; Newsman Hit

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers dumped 450,000 pounds of bombs today on suspected Communist build-up areas near the Cambodian border and just inside North Vietnam.

In two early morning strikes, the eight-engine Stratofortresses dropped 300,000 pounds of explosives on suspected Communist weapons positions and troop concentrations two and three miles north-northeast of the Bu Dop Special Forces Camp 86 miles north of Saigon.

Heavy fighting and Communist mortar and artillery attacks have engaged the Americans off and on since last week around Bu Dop, which is only three miles east of the Cambodian border. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have been reported building up in the area from sanctuaries in Cambodia.

In a third raid, the B52s unloaded 150,000 pounds of bombs on suspected Communist anti-aircraft and artillery positions, bunkers and supply areas along the southern tip of North Vietnam 12 miles north-northeast of the U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien. The North Vietnamese are believed to have from 35,000 to 40,000 troops along the frontier area.

Fighting flared briefly again at Bu Dop Tuesday after a weekend of heavy Communist mortar and artillery attacks. A company from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, sent in last week to reinforce the special forces camp, ran into two Communist platoons—about 70 men—who were in fortified positions less than a mile from the Bu Dop airstrip.

In a brief skirmish, the American infantrymen reported killing 10 of the enemy while suffering four wounded. The Communist platoons were reported armed with two wheel-mounted machine guns and 82mm mortars.

U.S. forces continued patrols around Bu Dop, searching for the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, and during one of them today Associated Press photographer Horst Faas was wounded.

Faas, a 34-year-old West German, has covered combat operations in Vietnam for five years and won a Pulitzer Prize in 1965 for his war photography. He was hit in both legs by fragments from a bazooka-type rocket but was reported in satisfactory condition. A U.S. infantryman alongside him also was wounded.

Faas was the 11th Associated Press casualty of the war. Ten members of the press corps have been killed in the war and nearly 100 wounded.

There were also counterpicketers at San Fernando Valley State College in Northridge, Calif., where antiwar pickets were protesting the campus presence of Dow Chemical Co. job recruiters.

Tom Frankovich, student body president, said he organized the 250 counterpicketers to "combat bad publicity" resulting from demonstrations by peace groups.

School Aid Bill Nearer Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's withdrawal of a hotly argued amendment on school busing removes a major barrier to passage of the $14.2 billion federal school aid bill.

The Senate Republican leader, apparently sensing defeat after two days of debate, withdrew Monday night his proposal to bar use of federal funds for busing pupils in order to overcome racial imbalances in schools.

Southern senators have other pending proposals to weaken the impact of civil rights laws, making possible further prolonged debate on the legislation.

But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., leading the administration's fight for the measure in its present form, expressed hope Southern opposition could be turned back in time to send the bill to a House-Senate conference by week's end.

The Southern opposition is focused on two proposed amendments.

One, sponsored by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., would prevent the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from cutting off aid to any district after a school year started. It would apply even when the school was found to be violating the section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act barring federal funds for projects where racial segregation is practiced.

The other is the rider which Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., got into the House's school bill. It would prevent HEW from deferring approval of aid applications from districts practicing segregation. Instead, the agency would have to go through a lengthy, formal process to cut off funds.

It happened because Marika and three young companions sent a protest letter to the White House.

Marika said they had spent a dollar phoning the White House number to hear President Johnson's voice in a recorded message.

Instead they heard the recorded voice of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Marika said a White House letter had explained that the President couldn't always tape the daily message for the phone call recording. Other important people then would substitute, it said.

Marika said she and her friends replied that the recording phone shouldn't respond if the President personally didn't tape the message. "You feel you've wasted your money," she explained.

A White House staff member phoned the James R. Wilson home on Monday. He told Mrs. Wilson the President wanted to call and talk to the children—Marika, her sister, Tasia, 11, her brother, Peter, 9, and Holly Sikes, 15, a friend who invested 25 cents in the first phone call.

"Oh, have him call tomorrow. It's Marika's birthday," exclaimed Mrs. Wilson.

All the kids were by the phone when the President called at 7 a.m.

"He told us he agreed everyone should get his money's worth."

The President and Vice President Humphrey chatted on with Marika and friends for nearly 10 minutes.

Marika's father is a physicist at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

Air Rifle Liability Is Upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Parents who allow their children under age 17 to use an air rifle are liable for injuries caused by the gun, the Ohio Supreme Court held today.

The unanimous decision affirmed a $9,000 award to Henry Taylor, son of Howard Taylor, Cleveland, for loss of his right eye from an air rifle BB shot.

Taylor sued Mrs. Fay Webster of Hineckley, Medina County, after the Cleveland boy was struck by a pellet fired by another playmate from the air rifle owned by Mark Webster.

The Taylor and Webster boys were aged 10 at the time of the alleged shooting by Earl Barnett on Sept. 27, 1958. The three boys were playing while Henry was a house guest in the Webster home.

An appellate court had reversed the common pleas court award but the Supreme Court reversed, in turn, and reinstated the award.

The high court said statute forbids the owner or one having control of an air gun to knowingly permit its use by a minor under 17 years of age. Such permission is negligence, the court explained, even though injury is caused by a third person using the air rifle.

How About 'Gardner Plan'?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post has received a suggestion for naming the foreign aid program.

A letter to the editor said: "Shouldn't it be called the 'Gardner Plan'?"

"I mean the current plan of supporting half the world. First it was the Hoover Plan; then the Marshall Plan. But each time it was my money that was used."

"In all fairness this plan should carry my name."

The letter was signed by A. Arthur Gardner of Hollywood, Fla.

Jimmy Rodgers Critically Hurt

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — "The next two days will tell the story," an associate says of singer Jimmie Rodgers, who underwent brain surgery Tuesday night.

Rodgers, 33, was listed in critical condition but hemorrhaging was halted by the operation, which lasted 4½ hours.

The surgery was performed by Dr. Henry W. Dodge Jr. Two other specialists were called into the case.

Rodgers was found beaten and unconscious by the San Diego Freeway early last Friday morning, apparently attacked in his car.

Lorain Teachers Consider Terms

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Teachers of the Lorain public school system adopted a resolution Tuesday saying they would give "serious consideration" to terms recommended for settling issues which caused them to stay away from classes three days last month. The terms were recommended by a mediation panel.

Jack Looney, president of the Lorain Education Association, said there are no plans at this time for the teachers to renew the "professional study meetings" which kept them from classes.

The North Vietnamese are believed to have from 35,000 to 40,000 troops along the frontier area.

Fighting flared briefly again at Bu Dop Tuesday after a weekend of heavy Communist mortar and artillery attacks. A company from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, sent in last week to reinforce the special forces camp, ran into two Communist platoons—about 70 men—who were in fortified positions less than a mile from the Bu Dop airstrip.

In a brief skirmish, the American infantrymen reported killing 10 of the enemy while suffering four wounded. The Communist platoons were reported armed with two wheel-mounted machine guns and 82mm mortars.

U.S. forces continued patrols around Bu Dop, searching for the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, and during one of them today Associated Press photographer Horst Faas was wounded.

Faas, a 34-year-old West German, has covered combat operations in Vietnam for five years and won a Pulitzer Prize in 1965 for his war photography. He was hit in both legs by fragments from a bazooka-type rocket but was reported in satisfactory condition. A U.S. infantryman alongside him also was wounded.

Faas was the 11th Associated Press casualty of the war. Ten members of the press corps have been killed in the war and nearly 100 wounded.

School Aid Bill Nearer Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's withdrawal of a hotly argued amendment on school busing removes a major barrier to passage of the $14.2 billion federal school aid bill.

The Senate Republican leader, apparently sensing defeat after two days of debate, withdrew Monday night his proposal to bar use of federal funds for busing pupils in order to overcome racial imbalances in schools.

Southern senators have other pending proposals to weaken the impact of civil rights laws, making possible further prolonged debate on the legislation.

But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., leading the administration's fight for the measure in its present form, expressed hope Southern opposition could be turned back in time to send the bill to a House-Senate conference by week's end.

The Southern opposition is focused on two proposed amendments.

One, sponsored by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., would prevent the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from cutting off aid to any district after a school year started. It would apply even when the school was found to be violating the section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act barring federal funds for projects where racial segregation is practiced.

The other is the rider which Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., got into the House's school bill. It would prevent HEW from deferring approval of aid applications from districts practicing segregation. Instead, the agency would have to go through a lengthy, formal process to cut off funds.

BJ Returns Phone Call To Teen Girl

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — President Johnson personally telephoned greetings Tuesday to Marika Wilson on her 16th birthday.

It happened because Marika and three young companions sent a protest letter to the White House.

Marika said they had spent a dollar phoning the White House number to hear President Johnson's voice in a recorded message.

Instead they heard the recorded voice of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Marika said a White House letter had explained that the President couldn't always tape the daily message for the phone call recording. Other important people then would substitute, it said.

Marika said she and her friends replied that the recording phone shouldn't respond if the President personally didn't tape the message. "You feel you've wasted your money," she explained.

A White House staff member phoned the James R. Wilson home on Monday. He told Mrs. Wilson the President wanted to call and talk to the children—Marika, her sister, Tasia, 11, her brother, Peter, 9, and Holly Sikes, 15, a friend who invested 25 cents in the first phone call.

"Oh, have him call tomorrow. It's Marika's birthday," exclaimed Mrs. Wilson.

All the kids were by the phone when the President called at 7 a.m.

"He told us he agreed everyone should get his money's worth."

The President and Vice President Humphrey chatted on with Marika and friends for nearly 10 minutes.

Marika's father is a physicist at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

Air Rifle Liability Is Upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Parents who allow their children under age 17 to use an air rifle are liable for injuries caused by the gun, the Ohio Supreme Court held today.

The unanimous decision affirmed a $9,000 award to Henry Taylor, son of Howard Taylor, Cleveland, for loss of his right eye from an air rifle BB shot.

Taylor sued Mrs. Fay Webster of Hincley, Medina County, after the Cleveland boy was struck by a pellet fired by another playmate from the air rifle owned by Mark Webster.

The Taylor and Webster boys were aged 10 at the time of the alleged shooting by Earl Barnett on Sept. 27, 1958. The three boys were playing while Henry was a house guest in the Webster home.

An appellate court had reversed the common pleas court award but the Supreme Court reversed, in turn, and reinstated the award.

The high court said statute forbids the owner or one having control of an air gun to knowingly permit its use by a minor under 17 years of age. Such permission is negligence, the court explained, even though injury is caused by a third person using the air rifle.

Jimmy Rodgers Critically Hurt

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — "The next two days will tell the story," an associate says of singer Jimmie Rodgers, who underwent brain surgery Tuesday night.

Rodgers, 33, was listed in critical condition but hemorrhaging was halted by the operation, which lasted 4½ hours.

The surgery was performed by Dr. Henry W. Dodge Jr. Two other specialists were called into the case.

Rodgers was found beaten and unconscious by the San Diego Freeway early last Friday morning, apparently attacked in his car.

McCarthy Move Just 'Footnote'

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The candidacy of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., in several Democratic presidential primaries in 1968 will be no more than "a footnote in the pages of history," Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said Tuesday.

"I just don't think McCarthy's candidacy is very important. It will be a footnote in the pages of history, if that," the former Minnesota governor told a news conference. He and McCarthy once were close political allies.

How About 'Gardner Plan'?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post has received a suggestion for naming the foreign aid program.

A letter to the editor said: "Shouldn't it be called the 'Gardner Plan'?"

"I mean the current plan of supporting half the world. First it was the Hoover Plan; then the Marshall Plan. But each time it was my money that was used."

"In all fairness this plan should carry my name."

The letter was signed by A. Arthur Gardner of Hollywood, Fla.

Refugees From Cuba In Mexico

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Happiness for 71 refugees is a thing called freedom—freedom from Communist Cuba.

Teddy Won't Run for LBJ in State Primary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien is boosting Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as a Massachusetts primary stand-in for President Johnson—a task Kennedy says he won't perform.

O'Brien, denying reports he might make the April 30 race in Johnson's behalf, called Kennedy "the ideal candidate" to stand in for the President against Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who intends to enter the Democratic primary on a platform of opposition to administration Vietnam policy.

"I have absolutely no intention of running in the primary," Kennedy said Tuesday. "It's as sure as anything can be in political life."

On the other side of the political fence, the Ripon Society—describing itself as "the only noncandidate group on the Republican left which is national in scope"—said if the GOP national convention were held today Richard M. Nixon and Ronald Reagan would probably command the support of three-fifths of the delegates.

President Lee W. Huebner wrote in the society's "forum" that if Nixon, the 1960 nominee, is generally successful in presidential primaries, he "could sweep the convention next summer without too much trouble."

"If he fails," Huebner said, "the most likely beneficiary would appear to be Ronald Reagan," California governor.

Huebner said Nixon's organization is growing in strength and Reagan conservatives are active in the grass roots where delegates are chosen in nonprimary states.

"While primary elections could launch some candidates and finish others," he said, "the Republican nominee will finally be chosen (in precinct meetings) in the living rooms and the school houses of nonprimary states. At present this process heavily favors Republican conservatives."

Huebner said the party's moderates now are unsatisfied that Gov. George Romney of Michigan can make the grade for the nomination and yet are doing nothing effective toward bringing forth any fresh contender.

The Forum article named Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as a proven candidate but said the New Yorker could not emerge as a contender until convention time unless he made an about-face in his stand against becoming a candidate.

Meanwhile in Troy, N.Y., House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford said Rockefeller could win the nomination "if the convention gets deadlocked." Ford is a nominal Romney supporter.

"Everything indicates that Gov. Rockefeller wants to help Gov. George Romney," Ford

Two Escape Serious Injury In Accident

Two Pickaway County men escaped what Sheriff's Deputies termed one of the worst wrecks they had ever seen with comparatively minor injuries.

Billy Ray Abner, 21, driver of a car that careened off Route 104 south of Westfall-Kinderhook Road, hurtling a 30 foot ditch, was admitted to Berger Hospital for treatment of abrasions, lacerations and possible other injuries.

Curtis Burkhardt, 31, a passenger in the car, was treated and released by the Berger emergency staff.

According to an investigation conducted by Pickaway Deputy James Lockard, Abner's car was out of control for nearly 250 feet. It struck a guard rail, clipping off eight heavy posts, bounced over a bridge abutment and across a small creek.

The car was lodged against trees on the edge of the creek and not visible from the road.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pagnano who live nearby the scene of the accident heard the crash. It took them several minutes to find the wreckage. Abner was still in the auto while Burkhardt had been thrown from the car.

The car was removed from the ditch by wrecker today. According to Deputies, it took nearly the entire width of the road to transport the vehicle. The top had been nearly peeled off and was laying on one side of the car.

The accident is still under investigation. According to the report, the pair had been drinking.

said at a news conference. "But on the other hand if the convention gets deadlocked in 1968, it's always possible Rockefeller would become the GOP's choice."

Discussing the Massachusetts primary, O'Brien said if Kennedy isn't going to run he should get together with state Democratic leaders to decide what should be done. Kennedy men argue it's up to the White House to decide how to handle McCarthy's challenge.

Antipoverty Bill Compromise Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferences have produced a compromise antipoverty bill after 11 days of hard bargaining but the measure still faces a bumpy road through Congress.

The compromise version agreed to Tuesday would put public officials instead of private citizens in charge of Community Action programs while continuing the over-all antipoverty program at authorized spending levels of $1.98 billion in fiscal 1968 and $2.18 billion in 1969.

The measure still must win final approval from a Senate that won't like the shift in control of community programs and a House that won't like the level of spending.

Senate action is possible late this week but the House won't take it up until next week.

In the prolonged bargaining sessions the conferees engaged in a tug-of-war over the provision in the House-passed bill that would make Community Action agencies official arms of the state or local government. Most are now private, nonprofit agencies.

"That was the real tough nut," said Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., chairman of the Senate conferees, summing up the conference after Tuesday night's agreement.

The change was written in by Democrats on the House Education and Labor Committee to win support for the over-all program from Southerners and big-city members who objected to the loose reins under which many private agencies operate.

"It was a tough decision," said Clark of the Senate's reluctant surrender on the issue.

"But I believe in the end the bill is not only better than no bill at all, but does hold out some hope for meaningful programs for the poor."

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien is boosting Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as a Massachusetts primary stand-in for President Johnson—a task Kennedy says he won't perform.

O'Brien, denying reports he might make the April 30 race in Johnson's behalf, called Kennedy "the ideal candidate" to stand in for the President against Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who intends to enter the Democratic primary on a platform of opposition to administration Vietnam policy.

"I have absolutely no intention of running in the primary," Kennedy said Tuesday. "It's as sure as anything can be in political life."

On the other side of the political fence, the Ripon Society—describing itself as "the only noncandidate group on the Republican left which is national in scope"—said if the GOP national convention were held today Richard M. Nixon and Ronald Reagan would probably command the support of three-fifths of the delegates.

President Lee W. Huebner wrote in the society's "forum" that if Nixon, the 1960 nominee, is generally successful in presidential primaries, he "could sweep the convention next summer without too much trouble."

"If he fails," Huebner said, "the most likely beneficiary would appear to be Ronald Reagan," California governor.

Huebner said Nixon's organization is growing in strength and Reagan conservatives are active in the grass roots where delegates are chosen in nonprimary states.

"While primary elections could launch some candidates and finish others," he said, "the Republican nominee will finally be chosen (in precinct meetings) in the living rooms and the school houses of nonprimary states. At present this process heavily favors Republican conservatives."

Huebner said the party's moderates now are unsatisfied that Gov. George Romney of Michigan can make the grade for the nomination and yet are doing nothing effective toward bringing forth any fresh contender.

The Forum article named Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as a proven candidate but said the New Yorker could not emerge as a contender until convention time unless he made an about-face in his stand against becoming a candidate.

Meanwhile in Troy, N.Y., House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford said Rockefeller could win the nomination "if the convention gets deadlocked." Ford is a nominal Romney supporter.

"Everything indicates that Gov. Rockefeller wants to help Gov. George Romney," Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Smith, the American defector whose claims to have been a Central Intelligence Agency operative are being heralded in the Soviet press, was described by his wife in a 1961 divorce action as psychotic.

The Soviets announced two months ago that Smith was in the Soviet Union. Since then he has written or been the subject of press articles purporting to relate inside information on CIA activities. His serialized memoirs ran in a Soviet magazine.

Smith claimed he had a hand in placing a bomb-laden suitcase on an airliner carrying delegates from Peking to Bandung, Indonesia, for an African-Asian conference in 1955. The plane vanished while over the ocean.

He also wrote he was convinced the CIA was involved in a "broad conspiracy" in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The State Department said Tuesday that Smith worked from 1950 to 1959 as a communications clerk in the New Delhi embassy and was earning under $6,000 when he quit. Spokesmen said he never worked for the CIA.

Mary London Smith won an uncontested divorce in 1961 after telling the Pinellas County Circuit Court, Clearwater, Fla., that a psychiatrist had found Smith was "in an acute stage of paranoia."

She also testified Smith suspected virtually everyone around him of being plotters.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey has previously said there would be no official rebuttal to Smith's allegations.

Stocks Edge To Upside

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market tried for the upside early this afternoon and was having tough going. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .81 at 888.93.

Gains were slightly more numerous than losses, but not by as large a margin as in mid-morning.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .3 at 317.6 with industrials off .6, rails off .2 and utilities unchanged.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices were higher, with trading less active than Tuesday.

Doctor Shortage

For a number of years the cry has been heard that the United States is developing a shortage of doctors. Because of rising health standards, the growth of government health programs and increasing affluency of the average American family, demands upon professional medical services have been growing more rapidly than the medical force.

Since that is true in the United States, which boasts the best medical care in the world, what of other countries? According to Dr. Marcelino G. Candau, director general of the World Health Organization, the shortage of medical personnel in the more backward areas of the world has reached alarming proportions.

As a result, health improvement in much of Africa, Latin America and Asia, in particular, is agonizingly slow. In some countries it may actually be regressing.

Not counting South Africa and the United Arab Republic, both of which have better than average medical standards for their continent, there are only a dozen medical schools in all Africa to serve a population of 200 million

Only six of these are graduating doctors. In 1965, only 140 doctors graduated for all Africa.

One of the factors affecting Africa adversely is the exodus of doctors and other professional men from the European colonies which once provided much of the skilled and professional labor for the continent. This is a direct result of the political upheavals and other tumultuous developments within those countries.

Also involved in poor planning by those who are training the professional talent. As Dr. Candau expressed it recently, "With all the talk about brain drain, there is not sufficient understanding that a medical student from an underdeveloped country who is trained abroad in diagnostic techniques dependent on the most modern laboratory facilities will not be prepared to grapple with the conditions he finds when he is sent back home."

Medical demands will continue to escalate in backward and advanced countries alike. The problem of professional shortages must be attacked with renewed zeal and a determination to succeed.

McNamara Is 'Two Men'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Not so long ago James Burnham, the author of some most excellent books on the Cold War, seemingly departed from his generally hawkish position on Vietnam to write what amounted to a eulogy of Secretary of Defense Robert Strange McNamara. The Burnham article, which appeared incongruously in Bill Buckley's "National Review," annoyed the conservative readers of that magazine no end, and there were even some snide insinuations that Burnham had sold out to the "no win" faction. But the truth of the matter is that there have always been two Robert Strange McNamaras inhabiting the same skin. One, the expert in scientific management, deserves all the praise that Burnham lavished on him; the other is a man who has been badly miscast in a position that requires intuition even more than it requires the computerized mind.

What McNamara brought to his job was a methodological approach to the end of getting the most out of reorganizing the tremendously complicated resources entrusted to him. Without his concept of "cost effectiveness," the business of managing three-and-a-half million soldiers and sailors, more than a million civilian employees, and a budget of $80 billion a year, would have bogged down completely. For the first time in history, McNamara brought the Department of Defense into the same world that has produced the great corporations (General Motors, IBM, Sears Roebuck) and the Harvard Business School. If McNamara hadn't been in the driver's seat in the Pentagon, the army commanded by Westmoreland in Vietnam would probably have been no better organized than the French who lost at Dienbienphu.

The creation and organization of a fighting force, however, is not the same thing as using it to achieve victory in the field. What McNamara has never understood is that war is an art as well as a science. The aim of war is to break your opponent's will, which means that the successful warrior must, in addition to knowing weapon systems, be a combination of psychologist, football coach, poker player, student of history, and master of the subject that used to be known as geopolitics. McNamara is none of these things. He would not have understood the Douglas MacArthur whose battle plans for the war in the Southwest Pacific can, with due allowance for changes in scale, be superimposed on the strategy maps of Napoleon's victories at Wagram, Marengo, and other once-famous place names of the early nineteenth century. MacArthur knew that success-

W. C. Fields Returns

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That notorious opponent of the establishment, W. C. Fields, appears to be the latest screen immortal to be embraced by the new generation of film goers. It's not certain whether the rediscovery of Fields was entirely spontaneous or was inspired by the alert salesmen of Universal Pictures. The company made some test engagements of Fields comedies in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit in late summer, and was encouraged to launch a full-scale campaign.

Such films as "Bank Dick," "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man," "My Little Chickadee" and "Never Give a Sucker An Even Break" have been playing in two New York Theaters and two in Los Angeles. Now Universal is planning a nationwide release, aiming primarily at college communities.

Apparently colleagues do have an affinity for Fields. What is the source of his appeal, aside from the fact that he was a very funny man?

He was one of the great put-ons of all time," theorized a universal executive. "No one did a better job of laughing at the Douglas MacArthur whose battle plans for the war in the Southwest Pacific can, with due allowance for changes in scale, be superimposed on the strategy maps of Napoleon's victories at Wagram, Marengo, and other once-famous place names of the early nineteenth century. MacArthur knew that success-

Pool shark, con man, drummer with a different march, Fields was always at odds with organized society. The ordinary sentimentalities repulsed him. "Anybody who hates dogs and children can't be all bad," he was essentially a loner—one resourceful, vaguely nefarious man against the world.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Dec. 6, the 340th day of 1967. There are 25 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt made a personal appeal for peace to Emperor Hirohito of Japan. The Pearl Harbor attack came the next day.

On this date: In 1847, Abraham Lincoln took his seat as a member of the Illinois delegation in the House of Representatives.

In 1889, the president of the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, died.

In 1917, some 1,600 persons died in an explosion when two ammunition ships—one Belgian, the other French—collided in the harbor at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

In 1933, Americans crowded into liquor stores and cafes to buy their first alcoholic beverages after 13 years of Prohibition.

In 1943, the Soviet Union was informed that the American-British Command in Europe had picked Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to command the invasion of Europe.

In 1957, the AFL-CIO voted to oust the Teamsters Union. Ten years ago, Nikita S. Khrushchev called for a top-level conference of capitalist and Communist countries.

Five years ago, Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Yugoslav President Tito meeting in Moscow, discussed the possibility of ending the 14-year split between their Communist parties.

One year ago Britain sought U.N. sanctions against Rhodesia, including a limited oil ban

Try and Stop Me

CHARLIE KISER is urging film star George Raft to publish a collection of the funny stories he has picked up over the years. He wants him to call it "The Japes of Raft." He also would like to present Raft with a puppy—so it can hitch its waggin' to a star.

Mr. Walk Walk Deutsch, eminent California industrialist, was so intent upon his thoughts that he bumped head-on into another pedestrian on Wilshire Boulevard. Deutsch turned left; so did the other person. Deutsch veered right; so did she. Then, thoroughly embarrassed by now, Deutsch crashed head-on into her again. At the end of the third round, the lady touched Deutsch's arm tentatively and murmured, "Just once more, dear boy, and then I really MUST go!"

CAMPUS HUMOR:

From U. of Nebraska: There's a florist in Omaha who has two sons. One, they say, is a budding genius—the other a blooming idiot.

From U. of Texas:

Bride-to-be: Have you made any reservations for our honeymoon, darling?
Bridegroom-to-be: I should say not—and I hope you haven't either!

From U.C.L.A.: Road Hog: Isn't it great, zooming along the Freeway like this? Don't you feel glad you're alive?
Terrified Passenger: Glad isn't the word, I'm amazed!

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What are some of the reasons for shortness of breath, especially while walking?

Breathlessness, or labored breathing, is known as dyspnea. The heart, lungs and circulatory system are the three most common areas involved in difficult breathing.

Even in normal health running for a bus or any unusual exercise is people out of "condition" will cause a moderate amount of breathlessness. This quickly subsides and is of no great medical significance. Athletes in training or people in good physical condition, especially those who regularly exercise, are not distressed by the added load of stress.

There are two centers, one in the brain and the other in the neck, that respond very quickly to the body's need for more oxygen when under stress. Respiration becomes more rapid with overexertion and when the body suddenly calls for more oxygen. Shortness of breath occurs at high altitudes before one adjusts to the changes in oxygen and carbon dioxide concentration.

Chronic bronchitis, emphysema and bronchiectasis are a few of the lung conditions that produce forced, distressing breathing. Asthma is particularly difficult for the heart-lung mechanisms.

There are a number of heart conditions which prevent the adequate pumping of blood and produce a sense of smothering and fatigue with distressed breathing. Changes in the vascular system and strokes play an important role in the cause of dyspnea.

The treatment, of course, depends entirely on the basic cause and is directed to the avoidance of any unusual strain on the heart and the lungs.

Can recent dental work cause pain in the ear and a clicking noise during a yawn?

Temporary and sometimes permanent changes within the jaw joint are responsible for referred pain to the ears, the back of the neck and the back of the head. There is a complex network of nerves, all related to each other, which distributes pain to both the jaw joint and the ears.

Changes in the bite may cause a temporary alteration with the jaw joint and produce pain in the ear that can be most distressing.

Recent dental extractions may make a person chew more vigorously on the opposite side and thereby injure or cause swelling within the jaw joint capsule. Missing teeth may disturb the normal bite. Poorly fitting dentures and worn-out bridges may throw the bite out of balance and the joint into distress.

Grinding of the teeth and too much chewing without rest affects the joint and can refer pain to other areas.

Dental surgeons are remarkably equipped with specialized x-ray techniques to detect early changes within the jaw joint. When the basic cause for the disturbance is determined it can be corrected.

A clicking noise during yawning suggests a change in the jaw joint. During the yawning process the mouth is open unusually wide and in some instances actually "locks." Almost always dental rehabilitation and correction of bite errors alleviate the condition in the jaw joint and reduces the referred pain to the ear.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — He's been in politics 30 years and he learned young one of the very best ways to miss being the No. 1 man is to catch foot-in-mouth disease.

His mouth has been constantly open for 30 years but he has been very sanitary about it. He kept his feet away.

In time he became the No. 1 man. And in his early White House days President Johnson's mouth was constantly open, on television, in speeches, or in one way or another, always saying something.

He seemed to have a compulsion to say something in those early days on Pennsylvania Avenue until he was reminded often enough he was not a hit on television or as a public speaker.

He was too stiff, too often what he said spontaneously or from a prepared text was just corn. His television appearances grew less frequent and so did his wide-open news conferences.

Meanwhile he continued to see White House reporters frequently by calling them into his office to make a statement or answer questions. Then at a big news conference last Nov. 17 he found a method that really clicked.

Instead of staying glued, as he had so often in the past, to a fixed microphone on a fixed podium behind which he stood as fixed and stiff as a cigar-store Indian, he decided to put a microphone around his neck.

He was a new man, free to wave his hands to make a point. Congratulatory telegrams poured in. He was delighted. This is probably how Johnson will do much of his talking in the future.

He talks fast but he has learned from his 30 years of public life not to be careless with the language which, through a clumsy or offensive word, could turn him into a laughing-stock or a political corpse.

But this long training in being careful is one reason why some of his news conferences could be done without, for some of them haven't meant much. Playing the cards close to your chest is not the best way to give information.

A good example was the sudden conference Monday with White House reporters. He called them into the Cabinet Room to announce he had named a new Marine Corps commandant, Lt. Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr.

After revealing that he refused to give very unrevealing answers to reporters' questions.

One example was a question about the tax increase he wants from Congress. What he said, in effect, was that he thinks it's necessary, which is what he had said a dozen times before. Another question was about his fellow Democrat from Minnesota, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who is setting out to try to frustrate Johnson's chances for renomination in 1968 by entering some presidential primaries.

Johnson's answer was another banality: That he thinks anyone has a right to try for anything he wants to run for.

And so on. There is something to be said for the kind of vacuity Johnson left behind him Monday. From his long training he has probably decided he won't be nudged into comment on McCarthy until he thinks the time and the occasion are right, if ever.

Doctor Shortage

For a number of years the cry has been heard that the United States is developing a shortage of doctors. Because of rising health standards, the growth of government health programs and increasing affluency of the average American family, demands upon professional medical services have been growing more rapidly than the medical force.

Since that is true in the United States, which boasts the best medical care in the world, what of other countries? According to Dr. Marcelino G. Candau, director general of the World Health Organization, the shortage of medical personnel in the more backward areas of the world has reached alarming proportions.

As a result, health improvement in much of Africa, Latin America and Asia, in particular, is agonizingly slow. In some countries it may actually be regressing.

Not counting South Africa and the United Arab Republic, both of which have better than average medical standards for their continent, there are only a dozen medical schools in all Africa to serve a population of 200 million

Only six of these are graduating doctors. In 1965, only 140 doctors graduated for all Africa.

One of the factors affecting Africa adversely is the exodus of doctors and other professional men from the European colonies which once provided much of the skilled and professional labor for the continent. This is a direct result of the political upheavals and other tumultuous developments within those countries.

Also involved in poor planning by those who are training the professional talent. As Dr. Candau expressed it recently, "With all the talk about brain drain, there is not sufficient understanding that a medical student from an underdeveloped country who is trained abroad in diagnostic techniques dependent on the most modern laboratory facilities will not be prepared to grapple with the conditions he finds when he is sent back home."

Medical demands will continue to escalate in backward and advanced countries alike. The problem of professional shortages must be attacked with renewed zeal and a determination to succeed.

McNamara Is 'Two Men'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Not so long ago James Burnham, the author of some most excellent books on the Cold War, seemingly departed from his generally hawkish position on Vietnam to write what amounted to a eulogy of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. The Burnham article, which appeared incongruously in Bill Buckley's "National Review," annoyed the conservative readers of that magazine no end, and there were even some snide insinuations that Burnham had sold out to the "no win" faction. But the truth of the matter is that there have always been two Robert McNamaras inhabiting the same skin. One, the expert in scientific management, deserves all the praise that Burnham lavished on him; the other is a man who has been badly miscast in a position that requires intuition even more than it requires the computerized mind.

What McNamara brought to his job was a methodological approach to the end of getting the most out of reorganizing the tremendously complicated resources entrusted to him. Without his concept of "cost effectiveness," the business of managing three-and-a-half million soldiers and sailors, more than a million civilian employees, and a budget of $80 billion a year, would have bogged down completely. For the first time in history, McNamara brought the Department of Defense into the same world that has produced the great corporations (General Motors, IBM, Sears Roebuck) and the Harvard Business School. If McNamara hadn't been in the driver's seat in the Pentagon, the army commanded by Westmoreland in Vietnam would probably have been no better organized than the French who lost at Dienbienphu.

The creation and organization of a fighting force, however, is not the same thing as using it to achieve victory in the field. What McNamara has never understood is that war is an art as well as a science. The aim of war is to break your opponent's will, which means that the successful warrior must, in addition to knowing weapon systems, be a combination of psychologist, football coach, poker player, student of history, and master of the subject that used to be known as geopolitics. McNamara is none of these things. He would not have understood the Douglas MacArthur whose battle plans for the war in the Southwest Pacific can, with due allowance for changes in scale, be superimposed on the strategy maps of Napoleon's victories at Wagram, Marengo, and other once-famous place names of the early nineteenth century. MacArthur knew that success-

W. C. Fields Returns

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That notorious opponent of the establishment, W. C. Fields, appears to be the latest screen immortal to be embraced by the new generation of film goers. It's still not certain whether the rediscovery of Fields was entirely spontaneous or was inspired by the alert salesmen of Universal Pictures. The company made some test engagements of Fields comedies in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit in late summer, and was encouraged to launch a full-scale campaign.

Such films as "Bank Dick," "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man," "My Little Chickadee" and "Never Give a Sucker an Even Break" have been playing in two New York Theaters and two in Los Angeles. Now Universal is planning a nationwide release, aiming primarily at college communities. Apparently collegiates do have an affinity for Fields. What is the source of his appeal, aside from the fact that he was a very funny man?

"He was one of the great put-ons of all time," theorized a universal executive. "No one did a better job of laughing at the establishment."

That seems to be an important factor in film merchandizing nowadays: to capitalize on the youthful revolt against those who hold the power. Robert Aldrich ascribed that element as the principal reason for the amazing success of his "Dirty Dozen."

It is true that the Fields comedies pictured him at odds with the authorities. He was the master of the sell game, a man who would sell a talking dog in a saloon, only to have the dog refuse to talk afterward. Always Fields was one step ahead of the sheriff. Even in his one attempt at the classic, "David Copperfield," he played the debt-ridden Micawber.

Fields' relationships with the opposite sex took two forms. He was plagued by a battle ax of a wife, e. g., Kathleen Howard in "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," whose rantings he accepted with an unhearing "yes, dear, yes, dear." Or else he was the florid wooer of the rich widow, as with Jan Duggan in "The Old-Fashioned Way." I can still recall his fingering of her curls, only to have one come off in his hand.

Pool shark, con man, drummer with a different march, Fields was always at odds with organized society. The ordinary sentimentalities repulsed him. "Anybody who hates dogs and children can't be all bad," he was essentially a loner—one resourceful, vaguely nefarious man against the world.

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 6, the 340th day of 1967. There are 25 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt made a personal appeal for peace to Emperor Hirohito of Japan. The Pearl Harbor attack came the next day.

On this date: In 1847, Abraham Lincoln took his seat as a member of the Illinois delegation in the House of Representatives.

In 1889, the president of the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, died.

In 1917, some 1,600 persons died in an explosion when two ammunition ships—one Belgian, the other French—collided in the harbor at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

In 1933, Americans crowded into liquor stores and cafes to buy their first alcoholic beverages after 13 years of Prohibition.

In 1943, the Soviet Union was informed that the American-British Command in Europe had picked Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to command the invasion of Europe.

In 1957, the AFL-CIO voted to oust the Teamsters Union. Ten years ago The Soviet Communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev called for a top-level conference of capitalist and Communist countries.

Five years ago Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Yugoslav President Tito meeting in Moscow, discussed the possibility of ending the 14-year split between their Communist parties.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What are some of the reasons for shortness of breath, especially while walking?

Breathlessness, or labored breathing, is known as dyspnea. The heart, lungs and circulatory system are the three most common areas involved in difficult breathing.

Even in normal health running for a bus or any unusual exercise is people out of "condition" will cause a moderate amount of breathlessness. This quickly subsides and is of no great medical significance. Athletes in training or people in good physical condition, especially those who regularly exercise, are not distressed by the added load of stress.

There are two centers, one in the brain and the other in the neck, that respond very quickly to the body's need for more oxygen when under stress. Respiration becomes more rapid with overexertion and when the body suddenly calls for more oxygen. Shortness of breath occurs at high altitudes before one adjusts to the changes in oxygen and carbon dioxide concentration.

Chronic bronchitis, emphysema and bronchiectasis are a few of the lung conditions that produce forced, distressing breathing. Asthma is particularly difficult for the heart-lung mechanisms.

There are a number of heart conditions which prevent the adequate pumping of blood and produce a sense of smothering and fatigue with distressing breathing. Changes in the vascular system and strokes play an important role in the cause of dyspnea.

The treatment, of course, depends entirely on the basic cause and is directed to the avoidance of any unusual strain on the heart and the lungs.

Can recent dental work cause pain in the ear and a clicking noise during a yawn?

Temporary and sometimes permanent changes within the jaw joint are responsible for referred pain to the ears, the back of the neck and the back of the head. There is a complex network of nerves, all related to each other, which distributes pain to both the jaw joint and the ears.

Changes in the bite may cause temporary alteration with the jaw joint and produce pain in the ear that can be most distressing.

Recent dental extractions may make a person chew more vigorously on the opposite side and thereby injure or cause swelling within the jaw joint capsule. Missing teeth may disturb the normal bite. Poorly fitting dentures and worn-out bridges may throw the bite out of balance and the joint into distress.

Grinding of the teeth and too much chewing without rest affects the joint and can refer pain to other areas.

Dental surgeons are remarkably equipped with specialized x-ray techniques to detect early changes within the jaw joint. When the basic cause for the disturbance is determined it can be corrected. A clicking noise during yawning suggests a change in the jaw joint. During the yawning process the mouth is open unusually wide and in some instances actually "locks." Almost always dental rehabilitation and correction of bite errors alleviate the condition in the jaw joint and reduces the referred pain to the ear.

All patients who are in bed for a long time should be turned at frequent intervals to avoid pressure sores.

Ancient Egypt worshipped birds and used their images as characters in hieroglyphics. Thousands of mummified birds have been found in burial vaults.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Searching for the Pigwidgen, Claus meets an old crone who directs him on a crooked road where he finds Patrick Tweedleknives.

CHAPTER FIVE THE SOPCHOPPY FERRY

CLAUS sat up and rubbed his nose. Patrick Tweedleknives stood before him two feet tall. The little elf's legs were bowed. His nose was pointed. Woolly eyebrows drooped over his fierce blue eyes. Bristles of red hair sprang straight up from his head.

Claus laughed. He thought he had never seen so comical a figure. Tweedleknives brandished his firefly, flashlight and hollered, "You're trespassing on private property, sir! I'd like to know what's so funny about that!"

Claus said hastily, "I am sorry. I was looking for the Sopchoppy River and the elf who runs the ferry there."

"I am the elf," said Tweedleknives. "I am the captain of the ferry."

"But," said Claus, where is the river?"

"You are sitting on it," said Tweedleknives grumpily.

Claus jumped to his feet in alarm. He peered at the ground. The first light of day had now come but he could see no river, not even a puddle.

"It's an underground river," said Tweedleknives huffily. "You were sitting on the entrance."

He kicked aside a layer of sod. There was a trap door. He lifted the door and flashed his light into a great hole. At the bottom was a river. Anchored there was a flimsy raft made of thousands and thousands of matchsticks.

"That," announced the elf, "is the Sopchoppy River Ferry. Now may I inquire who you are and what you're doing poking into business that is no concern of yours?"

"But it is my business!" declared Claus.

He told Tweedleknives how a curse had escaped from a mysterious black pocket book left in his keeping. And how all the children of the land had fallen into a sleep from which they could not be awakened. And how he had found a key marked "Pigwidgen" in the purse.

"I have set out to destroy the Pigwidgen, whoever or whatever he is," finished Claus. "And I have heard you are the one who can tell me what I need to know."

"The Pigwidgen is the strongest power on earth," said the elf. "You can never destroy him."

"Nevertheless," said Claus, "I shall try."

"Centuries ago the Pigwidgen laid a curse on the elves," said Tweedleknives. "Since then if the light of sun or moon falls on an elf he will turn to ashes. All except me. I was swimming under the Sopchoppy River at the time. I am very good at underwater swimming and I escaped the curse. All other elves must live underground and can be reached only by my ferry."

"Where will I find the Pigwidgen?" asked Claus.

"No elf has ever seen him. He lives behind walls in a land of frost and never-ending snow. I will go there," said Claus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"It looks more and more like we will have" a special legislative session to consider redistricting, a top aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.

The aide, John McElroy, made the comment while discussing mechanics of a special session in light of the U. S. Supreme Court ruling Monday which upset Ohio's current pattern of congressional districts.

Rhodes, who is in New York on a speaking tour, said he would talk with Ohio legislative leaders before taking any action.

Atty. Harry M. Lehman of Cleveland, who led a fight to overturn the state's districting, said he would oppose any move to continue the present plan through the 1968 election.

McElroy said he had talked with House Speaker Charles Kurfess R-4 Wood at his home in Bowling Green and with Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, reached at San Francisco, but did not discuss their conversations.

He said he also planned to be," said Tweedleknives grudgingly. His nose seemed to grow sharper. His red hair turned more fiery. "No one is braver than I," he declared beligerently. "I will go with you."

"Then let us be off!" said Claus.

"We will need weapons," said Tweedleknives.

"What kind of weapons?" "Special ones. The elves will make them. Come, don't dally so."

He gave the unsuspecting Claus a shove and they both tumbled down the hole to the Sopchoppy River Ferry.

Port Authority Meeting Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A meeting of three governors to discuss a possible tri-state port authority has been scheduled for Dec. 19 at the Greater Cincinnati Airport, Gov. James A. Rhodes office announced today.

Rhodes first proposed such a meeting, with the governors of Kentucky and Indiana, last week. He said a regional port authority would help the growth of Ohio River ports.

Indiana Gov. Roger D. Branigan and Louis B. Nunn, who will be sworn in as Kentucky governor next week, agreed to the meeting Monday, Rhodes said.

Armco Announces Price Increases

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Armco Steel Corp. announced increases and decreases Tuesday in the prices of hot rolled and cold rolled sheet and strip, galvanized sheets and long terms.

The price bases will be increased 20 cents per 100 pounds on hot rolled sheet and strip, and 25 cents per 100 pounds on galvanized sheet and cold rolled sheet and strip, effective, Dec. 15.

The reduction will be made in the price base of long terms by 15 cents per 100 pounds, effective Dec. 6.

the governor and legislative leaders appoint a bipartisan committee to study the subject and make recommendations to the General Assembly when it convenes next month.

The U.S. Supreme Court overturned present redistricting on grounds that the population balance was lopsided. It cited, in a one-sentence reversal, its February 1964 landmark decision that state congressional districts be as nearly equal in population as practicable.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Searching for the Pigwidgen, Claus meets an old crane who directs him on a strange road where he finds a crooked-legged elf named Patrick Tweedleknies.

CHAPTER FIVE THE SOPCHOPPY FERRY

CLAUS sat up and rubbed his nose. Patrick Tweedleknies stood before him two feet tall. The little elf's legs were bowed. His nose was pointed. Woolly eyebrows drooped over his fierce blue eyes. Bristles of red hair sprang straight up from his head.

Claus laughed. He thought he had never seen so comical a figure. Tweedleknies brandished his firefly, flashlight and hollered, "You're trespassing on private property, sir! I'd like to know what's so funny about that!"

Claus said hastily, "I am sorry. I was looking for the Sopchoppy River and the elf who runs the ferry there."

"I am the elf," said Tweedleknies. "I am the captain of the ferry."

"But," said Claus, where is the river?"

"You are sitting on it," said Tweedleknies grumpily.

Claus jumped to his feet in alarm. He peered at the ground. The first light of day had now come but he could see no river, not even a puddle.

Joyce Boldoser, David Hedges Exchange Vows

Miss Joyce Ann Boldoser, daughter of Mrs. Charles Boldoser, Route 1, and David H. Hedges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Hedges of Ashville, were united in marriage, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 17 in a candlelight service.

The Rev. Harry Hill performed the double ring ceremony in the Salem Methodist Church, Meade. The altar was adorned with arrangements of mums and gladioli, and two seven branch candelabra.

Mrs. Vera Miller, organist and Ronald Driesbach, vocalist, presented the nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her brother, Ned Boldoser, the bride was attired in a street length dress of beige crepe with brown accessories. She carried a bouquet of bronze mums on top of a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Betty Boldoser was maid of honor for her sister, and Wilson Martin, brother-in-law of the groom served as best man.

A reception at Pickaway arms followed the ceremony. A three tiered wedding cake centered the refreshment table. Hostesses were Mrs. Ned Boldoser and Mrs. Charles Boldoser.

The bride is a graduate of Pickaway Twp. High School and is employed by John W. Eshelman and Sons.

Mr. Hedges graduated from Walnut Twp. High School and is engaged in farming.

The couple is now residing on Route 1, Ashville.

Flavors Will Blend Well If Fruitcake Is Made Now

CHRISTMAS CAKE — Make this delicious pineapple and pecan fruitcake in good time so that you give its flavors time to blend.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you are looking for a fruitcake that is neither overly sweet, nor heavily spiced, this recipe is definitely for you. Its simple batter holds nuggets of pineapple, pecans and golden raisins. Given sprinklings of brandy or rum, it takes on spirited flavor.

You'll find explicit directions for storing, decorating and glazing the cake are given with the recipe.

PINEAPPLE PECAN CAKE

1½ cups sifted regular flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup (¼ pound) butter or margarine
¼ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
4 eggs

1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 cups chopped candied pineapple
2 cups coarsely broken pecans
1 cup chopped golden raisins

Grease 2 loaf pans (each 7½ by 3½ by 2½ inches); or use 1 loaf pan and 8 to 10 small muffin-pan cups (each 1¾ by 1 inch). Line bottoms of loaf pans with brown paper; grease paper. If muffin-pan cups are used, place a small paper baking cup in each.

On wax paper sift together the flour, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; set aside ¼ cup of the mixture.

In a large mixing bowl, cream the butter and sugar. Thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time. Add lemon rind. Stir in ¼ cups of the flour mixture just until smooth. Toss reserved ¼ cup of flour mixture with pineapple and pecans; stir into batter. Turn into prepared pans.

Bake in a 275-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 1

U.S. Silent On Vietnam Plan for U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States kept silent today on plans to seek U.N. action on the Vietnam war amid an apparent U.S.-South Vietnamese split over whether to invite the Viet Cong to participate.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation said no instructions had been received from the White House since the Senate approved a resolution last Friday calling on President Johnson to seek U.N. help to end the war.

Johnson told a news conference Monday that the resolution would be sent to the State Department and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg for their "reactions" before any steps are taken.

Questioned about the prospects of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front taking part in the proposed Security Council debate, the State Department recalled Goldberg's telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a month ago the United States "would not stand in the way of any group, including the NFL, being invited."

In the wake of the State Department comment, South Vietnam's Foreign Ministry appealed to the United Nations not to allow the world forum to be used for "propaganda purposes."

"The South Vietnamese people can only negotiate with North Vietnam, and will energetically refuse any presence by South Vietnam National Liberation Front representatives under the name or meaning of a separate delegation in any peace negotiations," the foreign ministry said.

France Delays

Carmichael Entry

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael was allowed to enter France today after being held overnight at Orly Airport by police as an "undesirable foreigner."

There was no immediate explanation for the reversal by higher authorities at the police decision.

Carmichael came to Paris from Stockholm to address a rally tonight opposing the Vietnam war. The U.S. Embassy said it made no attempt to have him banned from France.

Flavors Will Blend Well If Fruitcake Is Made Now

CHRISTMAS CAKE — Make this delicious pineapple and pecan fruitcake in good time so that you give its flavors time to blend.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you are looking for a fruitcake that is neither overly sweet, nor heavily spiced, this recipe is definitely for you. Its simple batter holds nuggets of pineapple, pecans and golden raisins. Given sprinklings of brandy or rum, it takes on spirited flavor.

You'll find explicit directions for storing, decorating and glazing the cake are given with the recipe.

PINEAPPLE PECAN CAKE

1½ cups sifted regular flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup (¾ pound) butter or margarine
¾ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
4 eggs

1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 cups chopped candied pineapple
2 cups coarsely broken pecans
1 cup chopped golden raisins

Grease 2 loaf pans (each 7½ by 3½ by 2½ inches); or use 1 loaf pan and 8 to 10 small muffin-pans (each 1½ by 1 inch). Line bottoms of loaf pans with brown paper; grease paper. If muffin-pan cups are used, place a small paper baking cup in each.

On wax paper sift together the flour, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; set aside ¼ cup of the mixture.

In a large mixing bowl, cream the butter and sugar. Thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time. Add lemon rind. Stir in ¼ cups of the flour mixture just until smooth. Toss reserved ¼ cup of flour mixture with pineapple and pecans; stir into batter. Turn into prepared pans.

Bake in a 275-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 1

U.S. Silent On Vietnam Plan for U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States kept silent today on plans to seek U.N. action on the Vietnam war amid an apparent U.S.-South Vietnamese split over whether to invite the Viet Cong to participate.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation said no instructions had been received from the White House since the Senate approved a resolution last Friday calling on President Johnson to seek U.N. help to end the war.

Johnson told a news conference Monday that the resolution would be sent to the State Department and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg for their "reactions" before any steps are taken.

Questioned about the prospects of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front taking part in the proposed Security Council debate, the State Department recalled Goldberg's telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a month ago the United States "would not stand in the way of any group, including the NFL, being invited."

In the wake of the State Department comment, South Vietnam's Foreign Ministry appealed to the United Nations not to allow the world forum to be used for "propaganda purposes."

"The South Vietnamese people can only negotiate with North Vietnam, and will energetically refuse any presence by South Vietnam National Liberation Front representatives under the name or meaning of a separate delegation in any peace negotiations," the foreign ministry said.

France Delays Carmichael Entry

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael was allowed to enter France today after being held overnight at Orly Airport by police as an "undesirable foreigner."

There was no immediate explanation for the reversal by higher authorities at the police decision.

Carmichael came to Paris from Stockholm to address a rally tonight opposing the Vietnam war. The U.S. Embassy said it made no attempt to have him banned from France.

New Chamber President; 7 Directors Take Office

Robert Johnson presided over a meeting of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors for the last time Tuesday noon during a luncheon meeting at Pickaway Arms.

Johnson "turned the gavel over" to 1968 Chamber President Robert Wilson. Also at the noon meeting, seven new directors were welcomed. They are Charles Baker, Bert Bennett, Ed Ebert, John Fissell, Frank Gans, Joe Smith and Lloyd Wardell.

Frank Gans of the First National Bank was elected to the vice presidency to fill the vacancy left by the elevation of Wilson.

Special tribute was paid to Mayor Ben H. Gordon and City Council President Harold Clifton. Both were guests at the luncheon and are out-going city officials. Gordon has 30 years of public service to his credit while Clifton has eight.

Mike Harrison announced that plans were shaping up for the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting. It has been scheduled for Jan. 25, at the 4-H Building on the Fairgrounds. John Wood, Xenia, will present entertainment on the organ and the speaker will be Dr. Carl Winters, Harrison said.

Ward Skinner, chairman of the Retail Merchants' Committee, noted that the course in shoplifting prevention was well-attended with 77 enrolled. He also commended the Jaycees for the fine Santa Claus parade following Thanksgiving.

Jaycee President Tom Elsea noted the Jaycees' Annual Distinguished Service Awards Banquet is slated Feb. 5. He added that the week of Jan. 25th has been designated as Jaycee Week. Special observances are being planned locally.

It was also announced that preparations are being completed for the annual Home Decorating Contest sponsored by the Chamber. Officials pointed out that homes must be entered in the contest to be eligible for judging. Entry blanks will be published later in The Herald.

Pickaway Grange Report

PICKAWAY COUNTY YOUTH GRANGE

The annual carry-in dinner preceded the December meeting of the Pickaway County Youth Grange, held at the home of Beverly and Barbara McKenzie Monday.

As has been the custom of the group, the last meeting of the year was a cooperative project both for the refreshments and the recreation after the business meeting.

President Phil Judy was in charge of the business for the evening. Each officer presented his report followed by the County Youth Chairman's report of upcoming activities.

Plans for the district meeting to be held Dec. 30, at the Grange building, were advanced and committees were appointed for projects pertaining to the meeting to which youth from six counties have been invited. It was announced that Rebecca Timmons will be in charge of the meal preparations for the day.

Attending the meeting were five Subordinate Granges in Pickaway County. The next meeting of the organization will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Judy, 7:30 p. m. Jan. 8.

STAR GRANGE

Star Grange met in regular session Tuesday evening in the Monroe School auditorium with Worthy Master, Harold Furniss presiding over the business session. An appeal for aid was answered and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bidwell who moved to Madison County asked to withdraw from the Grange.

Police Seek Williamsburg Burglars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police searched a rural area in eastern Hamilton County early today for three men who escaped in the darkness after a Clermont County gun store burglary and a high-speed auto chase.

The men left their car after it was forced off Ohio 32 near Newton by a Clermont County Sheriff's Department car. They fled on foot, leaving the loot from the burglary in the car, the sheriff's office reported.

Fifty rifles, some of them shotguns, and 10 pistols were taken from a gun store in Williamsburg, Clermont County, just after midnight. A couple living near the store reported the burglary to police while it was in progress.

Police cars chased the fleeing car west on Ohio 32 about 15 miles, and authorities said speeds reached over 100 miles per hour.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

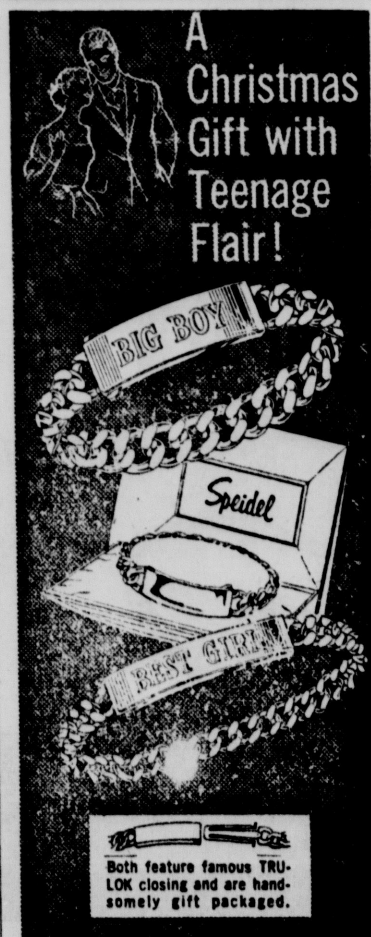

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No 2 red wheat mostly unchanged to 1 higher 1.30-1.36, mostly 1.31-1.33; No 2 yellow corn mostly unchanged to 1 higher 92-97 per bu., mostly 92-95; No. 2 oats mostly unchanged to 1 higher 68-80, mostly 72-75; No. 1 soybeans mostly unchanged to 1 higher 2.43-2.48, mostly 2.43-2.47.

Mrs. Francis Furniss, home economics chairman thanked the ladies who made aprons for the Veterans Hospital, Chillicothe. She also reported on the county wide centennial Banquet held in Circleville a couple of weeks ago.

The officers were invited to meet in the home of the Master, Harold Furniss Friday evening to make plans for the coming year.

The program under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and Miss Laura Long featured "Thankfulness". Mrs. Furniss read "The Challenge of Abundance" which was prepared by the state chaplain, Rev. R. N. Wells. Mrs. Loring Stoer read the origin of Thanksgiving and Mrs. Paul Dawson read "Our Psalm of Thanksgiving". Mrs. Robert Morgan read, "November" and Miss Florence Long read THANKSGIVING and Mrs. Ernestine Duddleson read "Thank You".

The program closed with group singing, "Oh Come all Ye Faithful." The next meeting will feature the annual Christmas Party with a covered dish supper at 7 o'clock P. M. followed by a program under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Michel chairman. At the close of the evening tempting refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Loring Stoer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morgan.

Uruguay's President Gestido Dies

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — President Oscar Diego Gestido died early today of a heart attack. He was 66.

Government sources said Gestido became ill about 1 a.m. and his wife immediately called doctors from the military hospital. The president died shortly after.

Vice President Jorge Pacheco Areco, 47, took over the presidency.

Gestido, a retired air force general, was sworn in last March as Uruguay's first "solo" president in 16 years, replacing a government council of nine men who had been unable to get together to solve Uruguay's mounting economic woes.

The bushy-browed, 6-foot-2 former pilot resigned from the council to run as a candidate from the underdog Colorado party. He won by a landslide.

Though he did not have time to revitalize his financially sick country, he gave it some stunning shock treatments in his nine months in office.

He devalued the peso sharply from 99 to 200 to the dollar and raised floor prices for wool and grains. He began curtailing government spending and issued $100 million in treasury bonds to finance deficits.

Thirty Montevideo grocers who marked up their prices on old stock were prosecuted under a new antiprofitting law. Such measures did away with Uruguay's black market in foreign currency virtually overnight.

When state bank employees struck for higher pay and all but tied up the state economy, Gestido suspended constitutional guarantees, ordered a state of siege for two weeks, ordered the strikers back to work and fired four ministers who protested the measures.

Uruguay, a tiny country wedged in between giant Brazil and Argentina, has a population of some 2.6 million and one of Latin America's three highest standards of living.

Makarios Winner In Cyprus Crisis

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — President Makarios appears to have won a striking diplomatic victory in the Cyprus crisis.

Despite pressure from the United States and the threat of a Turkish invasion, the Greek Orthodox archbishop who heads the government of Cyprus—and the Greek Cypriot majority—refused to bow to Turkish demands.

The general feeling is that Makarios called Turkey's bluff and won.

Makarios gave up almost nothing. The yielding came from Turkey and Greece. The archbishop accepted unconditionally only one point in U.S. envoy Cyrus Vance's original package—withdrawal of Greek and Turkish troops illegally on Cyprus. Technically he would have had no say on that anyway since they are the forces of another nation and not subject to his control.

Where the proposals touched on matters pertaining exclusively to his administration of Cyprus, he did not budge. These proposals were finally dropped.

Makarios said no to the Turkish demand that he disband his national guard. He said no to the Turkish demand that the Turkish Cypriot minority get the legal right to form their own police forces and governments inside their enclaves.

Makarios has doubts about enlarging the mandate of the UN, peace force on Cyprus. According to Secretary-General U Thant's last peace appeal, this will be a matter of further negotiation.

Thant has not only urged an expanded mission for the United Nations on the divided island but has also suggested that the 4,200-man force be enlarged to give it "broader functions in regard to a realization of quiet and peace in Cyprus."

Greece, Turkey and Cyprus have all accepted in principle the secretary-general's proposals aimed at averting war on Cyprus. But Cypriot President Makarios said any enlargement of the force would have to be considered by the council "with due regard to the sovereignty of Cyprus."

Urge Separate Pension Fund For Teachers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State university spokesmen urged Tuesday that a separate retirement system be established for faculty members and administrators of the state schools.

In testimony before the House Finance Committee, Dr. John Millett, chancellor of the Board of Regents, and Dr. John E. Corbally, vice president of academic affairs for Ohio State University, asked that a "separate pool" be set up within the Public Employees Retirement System (PERS).

Faculty members of state schools are presently in the State Teachers Retirement System (STRS).

Both Millett and Corbally said the universities would be able to save money by joining the PERS. They testified in support of House Bill 129.

Corbally said universities now contribute 11.5 per cent to the STRS and in the PERS their share would be 9 per cent.

Corbally said under the STRS, Ohio State now contributes $1.651 million a year, and its contributions into a special pool for only faculty members and administrators would be $1.292 million.

Both emphasized that benefits would be the same for employees.

Millett told the committee that university teachers should be considered separately from public school teachers because of various factors.

He mentioned the differences in lengths of contracts, pay scales and that the public school teachers greatly outnumber the university teachers.

Conscientious Objector Serves As Vietnam Medic

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

TRANG BANG, Vietnam (AP) — Jerry Greene, a conscientious objector, fought to get to Vietnam and now serves as a medic with the 25th Division.

The rangy North Carolinian hates killing on religious grounds and wouldn't pick up a weapon if his life depended on it. But he has no sympathy for the majority of anti-war groups in the United States, including other Negroes who advocate Black Power.

"I came to Vietnam to save lives," he says. "Now my buddies are artillerymen and it's their job to kill. After all, this is a war and the Bible is full of wars. I respect their thinking and they respect mine."

"A man can object to killing on moral grounds. The way I read the Bible, there isn't any exception to the law 'Thou shalt not kill.' But a man also has a duty to his country. And I disagree 100 per cent with Negroes who say we shouldn't come here because this is a white man's war. I'd like to see a lot of the militant protesters sent over here."

Spec.4 Greene could have escaped Vietnam duty altogether if he had chosen. Because of an ear condition, loud noises could mean permanent deafness. Thus Greene could have been exempted from combat zones. But Greene sought and got a waiver, packed a set of earplugs and shipped out with his artillery battalion.

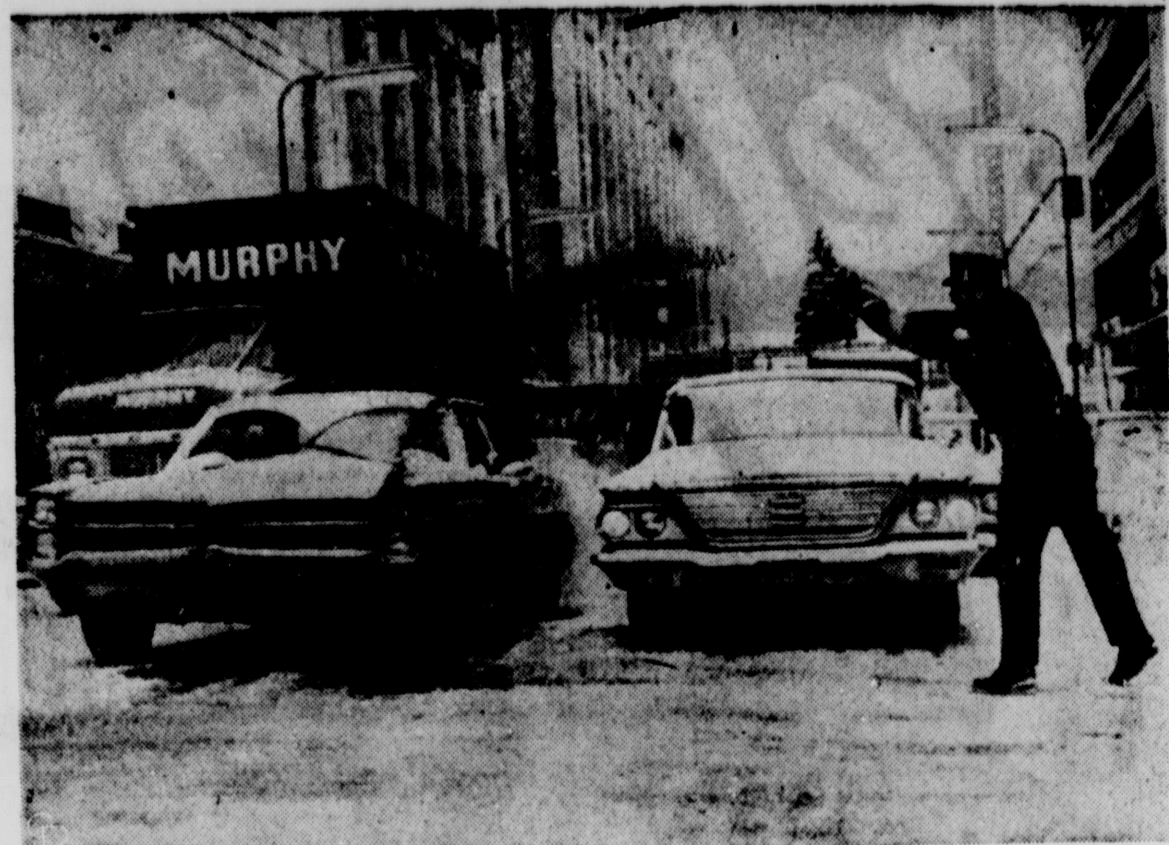

Greene is a member of the Bethel Gospel Tabernacle and his draft board readily agreed to a conscientious objector status on religious grounds.

Deserted by his father at age 3, Greene says he was an alcoholic before he was a teen-ager. Now 22, he neither drinks nor smokes.

Greene has backed with raw courage his determination to save lives. During a night mortar attack on his battalion's forward fire base in the Ho Bo Woods, Greene leapt from the comparative safety of his bunker and raced outside while the shells were still falling.

Men outside were crying "Medic!" someone shouted through the protective earplugs. The word means only one thing during a fight. Someone has been hit by enemy fire.

"But if I ever run into a Viet Cong out there and he's wounded, I'll treat him just like an American," says Greene. "They're human beings, too."

Try "Super-Right" Meats for Tender-Juicy Goodness!

It's America's most popular! Why?

We think it's excellence of product.

Years and years ago, when we decided to bake

Jane Parker Fruit Cake, we also decided to bake the best.

That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts

Just enough delicious cake to hold together the bounty of cherries imported from France, pineapple from the Far East, citron from Italy, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

We think, too, that value has made it popular.

IMAGINE, THE 5-LB. CAKE COSTS ONLY $3.99.

That's the same low price as last year which makes it an even greater value.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular.

One other thing you should know: You can buy it only at A&P.

P.S. Wouldn't it make a great gift for someone?

Thus Greene could have been exempted from combat zones. But Greene sought and got a waiver, packed a set of earplugs and shipped out with his artillery battalion.

Greene is a member of the Bethel Gospel Tabernacle and his draft board readily agreed to a conscientious objector status on religious grounds.

Deserted by his father at age 3, Greene says he was an alcoholic before he was a teen-ager. Now 22, he neither drinks nor smokes.

Greene has backed with raw courage his determination to save lives. During a night mortar attack on his battalion's forward fire base in the Ho Bo Woods, Greene leapt from the comparative safety of his bunker and raced outside while the shells were still falling.

Men outside were crying "Medic!" someone shouted through the protective earplugs. The word means only one thing during a fight. Someone has been hit by enemy fire.

"But if I ever run into a Viet Cong out there and he's wounded, I'll treat him just like an American," says Greene. "They're human beings, too."

we care

It's America's most popular! Why?

We think it's excellence of product.

Years and years ago, when we decided to bake Jane Parker Fruit Cake, we also decided to bake the best.

That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts

Just enough delicious cake to hold together the bounty of cherries imported from France, pineapple from the Far East, citron from Italy, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

We think, too, that value has made it popular.

IMAGINE, THE 5-LB. CAKE COSTS ONLY $3.99.

That's the same low price as last year which makes it an even greater value.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular.

One other thing you should know: You can buy it only at A&P.

P.S. Wouldn't it make a great gift for someone?

Flower Power Parents Seek Help

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "I hear other parents talk about how their kids are in college or are doctors and teachers and what can I say? My son's a dirty, rotten social dropout."

It takes courage for a mother to get up in front of people she hardly knows and say a thing like that. But here, every Tuesday night, it happens.

The mother and those who gathered to hear her were parents of hippies. They were drawn together by the mutual hope of mutual help in searching for some way to get their runaway children to come home.

For lack of a better name, they call themselves the National Society for the Parents of Flower Children. It is not so much an organization as it is a group therapy during which the parents hope—they may learn something from each other that they can use to help their children.

There was, for instance, the mother who lost her 17-year-old son to the hippie subculture she cannot understand. He left home four years ago. Lately he's been coming back when he's hungry or in trouble with the law.

"Once I sat up all night outside a jail knowing my son was in a cell inside and I thought things could never be any worse," she said. "Then the next morning I heard he had escaped and suddenly things were much worse."

"There are times I feel there's just no reason to hope that we'll ever be happy again. All we need is one step forward. Just one. We'd take our boy back. We want him back. But he doesn't want us."

The NSPFC group is small. It started with 35 parents and has dwindled during its two months of existence to 15.

The NSPFC meets on Tuesday nights in a hall at St. Thomas' Episcopal church located just one block from Dupont Circle, Washington's hippie area.

At first, the group meetings were tense, a little like the opening of a new chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous, as one parent put it.

"When parents first come, they're belligerent defensive," a father said. "They think only their children need help. They find it very difficult to sit in front of other people and admit that they may have failed their children as much as they think their children failed them."

"The road back from this problem isn't a one-lane road. The parents and the children have to travel it together."

Some parents think they may have found the road back and they are anxious to tell other NSPFC members about it.

"After hunting for a year I found my son and to my surprise he agreed to submit to a (mental) examination, not so much out of willingness to return to the fold but more out of interest in what the doctors would do to him," one father said at a recent meeting.

He volunteered to give the group full details on the examination and its results as soon as he could.

"If it helps my son maybe it can help some of you," he said. "I have hope."

"He doesn't wear the way-out clothes. The hair and the beard, yes. He has withdrawn from everything material, devoted himself to a life of meditation, living on brown rice and tea, yes."

"But he lives in a relatively clean place. Kooky but clean. He smokes a little pot, a little opium. He paints when he feels like it."

"But when I found him a year ago he was living in filth and such a crowded condition that you couldn't get inside the door without retching. So he hasn't gone down. If anything, he's come up a little bit."

The mother whose son left four years ago said:

"I hear about the others who are making progress and I feel good for them. I really do. But after four years I can't help thinking, oh dear God, it must be my turn!"

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

GI Son Loves Married Woman

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old son, who is in the service, has written to tell us he has "fallen in love" with a 27-year-old woman. She has three children, is separated from her husband, but is not divorced.

He is coming home on leave next month and says he wants to bring his "girl friend" home for us to meet, but first he wants to be sure we will welcome her and give her a chance.

Abby, this is awfully hard for us to take. Do you really believe that a decent 27-year-old woman, still married, could get mixed up this way with a 19-year-old boy?

Should we forbid him to bring her home? We want to do the right thing, but we're so upset we can't think straight.

MOM AND DAD
DEAR M. AND D.: Urge your son to talk with his chaplain, and suggest that he take his "girl friend" along to listen. Tell him that you think a married woman has no business going home with a boy to meet his parents, and you will feel better about "welcoming her, and giving her a chance" if and when she is free. But don't forbid him to bring her home, or he might not come either.

"ABSURD"—Princess Maria Beatrice of Savoy and her attorney arrive at the district attorney's office in Rome after her father, former Italian King Umberto, claimed that Italian actor Maurizio Arena is forcing her to marry him. She called the charge "absurd."

DEAR ABBY: When I was coming home from my vacation I met a wonderful young man on the bus. It was love at first sight for both of us. We have seen each other several times now, and he wants to marry me.

Please don't think I'm dumb, but here's my problem. He is a farm boy from southern Minnesota and he intends to go right on farming. I love this boy a lot, Abby, but I have hay fever and I don't know whether I could live on a farm.

MARY ANN
DEAR MARY ANN: Love is nothing to sneeze at. Ask your doctor what's new in hay fever remedies. If you find you can't beat the weed, ask your farm boy if you can sit out the hay fever season in Duluth.

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old daughter came home and told me that everyone in her class at school was asked to fill out a questionnaire. There were questions such as these:

Which parent do you love more — your mother or your father?

Do your parents sleep together?

Do either of your parents smoke or drink?

Do they go to church? If so, which one, and how often?

I feel this is an out-and-out invasion of privacy and would like to know how you feel about this sort of thing.

IRATE MOTHER
DEAR IRATE: I agree with you. Why don't you go to school and inquire about the purpose of such questions, who originated the "project," and how the replies are being used?

DEAR ABBY: For Gisela, who wanted to know the origin of that "silly superstition" that to sit 13 at a table is bad luck:

At The Last Supper, Jesus and his 12 Apostles sat, making their number 13. Afterward Jesus was betrayed by Judas. If you will notice in the painting of the Last Supper, the salt shaker had been overturned, which undoubtedly accounts for it's bad luck to spill the salt.

an American tradition

You benefit from an old American tradition when you get trading stamps where you shop. It's a tradition that began in Vermont in 1793... when a merchant gave tokens his customers could redeem for gifts. It was his way of rewarding them for their patronage. Trading stamps—introduced 70 years ago—serve to thank you for being a customer. And, like the tokens of old, the Buckeye Stamps are on the merchant... not you.

New Anti-TB Drug Approved by FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new oral antituberculosis drug—hailed as apparently representing a new breakthrough in treating the age-old scourge—is now available for prescription by doctors and hospitals throughout the country.

Spokesmen for Lederle Laboratories of Pearl River, N.Y., which developed the drug after a 19-year search, said Tuesday it was marketed Monday following approval by the Food and Drug Administration.

The drug's trade name is Myambutol and is chemically known as Ethambutol.

The Lederle spokesmen said that in clinical trials involving more than 2,900 tuberculosis patients in the United States and other countries since 1961, Myambutol proved significantly effective in TB cases which had become resistant to standard drugs such as isoniazid, streptomycin and para-aminosalicylic acid or PAS. Myambutol is designed, though, for use in combination with some of the older drugs, especially isoniazid.

The World Health Organization estimates there are between 15 million and 20 million cases of infectious tuberculosis in the world, with two to three million victims dying annually. A public health service study in 1964 said there were 50,800 newly active cases reported that year in the United States along with 8,303 deaths.

Dr. Robert J. Anderson of New York, medical director of the National Tuberculosis Association, said in answer to a telephone query by The Associated Press:

"Ethambutol appears to represent new breakthrough in the chemotherapy (chemical treatment) of tuberculosis, particularly in the treatment of patients who have not responded to prior treatment and whose TB germs may be resistant to the major anti-TB drugs."

Anderson said the committee on therapy of the American Thoracic Society—medical section of the tuberculosis society—has invited all clinical investigators involved in the drug's trials to meet with the society in January "to delineate the drug's potential."

Shirley Ferrebee, a medical statistician and chief of the TB research division of the U.S. Public Health Service, told a reporter: "We believe that the new drug is going to make a really significant difference in the treatment of patients."

She explained that the present standard drug treatment for TB is a combination of the drugs isoniazid and PAS, but that PAS "causes a lot of gastrointestinal stress and a lot of patients don't take it."

"They toss it out the window or down the drain," she said, "and keep in mind that 60 per cent of all TB patients are not sent to the hospital, and treat themselves at home. So, you can see the advantage of using the new drug in combination with isoniazid."

Lukens Says GOP Hope of Young

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The "Republican Party is the hope of the young," says Rep. Donald Lukens, R-Ohio.

Lukens, speaking to University of Texas' Young Republican Club Tuesday, said his party appeals to the young "because we welcome new ideas that are not wedded to stagnant one-party politics of the past."

Death Note Shows Woman Depressed

FAIRFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A 28-year-old housewife who took her own life after killing her husband and small daughter had been suffering from depression, the Butler County coroner says.

Mr. Garret J. Boone ruled the deaths of Ronald Mooreman, 33; his wife Janice and their 6-year-old daughter Michele a case of double murder and suicide.

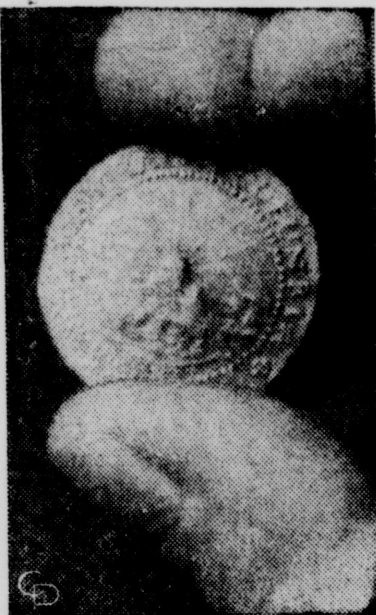

Both Mooreman and his daughter had been dead for several hours when police entered the house at 11 a.m. after a frantic telephone call from Mrs. Mooreman's sister at Ludlow, Ky. Sgt. Ray Wolf said Mrs. Mooreman shot herself as officers entered the house.

The Mooreman's second child, Donald Gregory, born in August, was found unharmed. Dr. Boone said Mrs. Mooreman had been despondent since the baby's birth.

Authorities said the dead woman left a note saying, "I have killed Don and Chele, but can't bring myself to shoot the baby. I hope someone will give him a good home. I can't go on. They are wonderful, it's me."

Police found a long-barreled eight shot revolver near Mrs. Mooreman's body.

Moorman was a press operator at the nearby Fisher Body plant and had worked until Monday midnight. Police said he and Michele apparently were shot about 8 a.m. as they lay in bed.

$150,000 COIN—The fingers of Richard F. Andrews hold the world's most valuable coin, a $16 gold piece, or doubloon, valued at $150,000 and once in the possession of George Washington. It had been in a $1 million collection of 4,000 coins stolen in 1965. Andrews, a specialist in these matters, recovered it in Miami, Fla., area.

Chillicothe Vet Aids British

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. William Wiseman of Chillicothe was one of a dozen U.S. veterinarians flown overseas last weekend to help fight Britain's epidemic of foot and mouth disease, the Animal Health Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

Wiseman is a division district veterinarian. The group is expected to remain in Britain 60 to 90 days.

Spokesmen for Lederle Laboratories of Pearl River, N.Y., which developed the drug after a 10-year search, said Tuesday it was marketed Monday following approval by the Food and Drug Administration.

The drug's trade name is Myambutol and is chemically known as Ethambutol.

The Lederle spokesmen said that in clinical trials involving more than 2,900 tuberculosis patients in the United States and other countries since 1961, Myambutol proved significantly effective in TB cases which had become resistant to standard drugs such as isoniazid, streptomycin and para-aminosalicylic acid or PAS. Myambutol is designed, though, for use in combination with some of the older drugs, especially isoniazid.

The World Health Organization estimates there are between 15 million and 20 million cases of infectious tuberculosis in the world, with two to three million victims dying annually. A public health service study in 1964 said there were 50,800 newly active cases reported that year in the United States along with 8,303 deaths.

Dr. Robert J. Anderson of New York, medical director of the National Tuberculosis Association, said in answer to a telephone query by The Associated Press:

"Ethambutol appears to represent new breakthrough in the chemotherapy (chemical treatment) of tuberculosis, particularly in the treatment of patients who have not responded to prior treatment and whose TB germs may be resistant to the major anti-TB drugs."

Anderson said the committee on therapy of the American Thoracic Society—medical section of the tuberculosis society—has invited all clinical investigators involved in the drug's trials to meet with the society in January "to delineate the drug's potential."

Shirley Ferrebee, a medical statistician and chief of the TB research division of the U.S. Public Health Service, told a reporter: "We believe that the new drug is going to make a really significant difference in the treatment of patients."

She explained that the present standard drug treatment for TB is a combination of the drugs isoniazid and PAS, but that PAS "causes a lot of gastrointestinal stress and a lot of patients don't take it."

"They toss it out the window or down the drain," she said, "and keep in mind that 60 per cent of all TB patients are not sent to the hospital, and treat themselves at home. So, you can see the advantage of using the new drug in combination with isoniazid."

Lukens Says GOP

Hope of Young

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The "Republican Party is the hope of the young," says Rep. Donald Lukens, R-Ohio.

Lukens, speaking to University of Texas' Young Republican Club Tuesday, said his party appeals to the young "because we welcome new ideas that are not wedded to stagnant one-party politics of the past."

Death Note Shows Woman Depressed

FAIRFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A 28-year-old housewife who took her own life after killing her husband and small daughter had been suffering from depression, the Butler County coroner says.

Mr. Garret J. Boone ruled the deaths of Ronald Mooreman, 33; his wife Janice and their 6-year-old daughter Michele a case of double murder and suicide.

Both Mooreman and his daughter had been dead for several hours when police entered the house at 11 a.m. after a frantic telephone call from Mrs. Mooreman's sister at Ludlow, Ky. Sgt. Ray Wolf said Mrs. Mooreman shot herself as officers entered the house.

The Mooremans' second child, Donald Gregory, born in August, was found unharmed. Dr. Boone said Mrs. Mooreman had been despondent since the baby's birth.

Authorities said the dead woman left a note saying, "I have killed Don and Chele, but can't bring myself to shoot the baby. I hope someone will give him a good home. I can't go on. They are wonderful, it's me."

Police found a long-barreled night shot revolver near Mrs. Mooreman's body.

Mooreman was a press operator at the nearby Fisher Body plant and had worked until Monday midnight. Police said he and Michele apparently were shot about 8 a.m. as they lay in bed.

$150,000 COIN—The fingers of Richard F. Andrews hold the world's most valuable coin, a $16 gold piece, or doubloon, valued at $150,000 and once in the possession of George Washington. It had been in a $1 million collection of 4,000 coins stolen in 1965. Andrews, a specialist in these matters, recovered it in Miami, Fla., area.

Chillicothe Vet Aids British

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. William Wiseman of Chillicothe was one of a dozen U.S. veterinarians flown overseas last weekend to help fight Britain's epidemic of foot and mouth disease, the Animal Health Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

Wiseman is a division district veterinarian. The group is expected to remain in Britain 80 to 90 days.

Schools Paying Too Much For Land Sites?

By BYRON BEARD
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Do Ohio's school districts pay too much for school sites?

Is the state's property tax assessment system set up to protect the state from landowners who victimize public education agencies in the purchase of school sites?

Consider these examples:

Twelve and one-half acres of land in Scioto County, part of a 70-acre tract, was purchased for education purposes for $52,000. The entire 70 acres was appraised for $26,940.

Figuring the appraisal price, the 12.5 acres should have cost $4,812.50. The state paid $4,160 per acre for land appraised a short time before at $385 per acre.

Seven acres of undeveloped farm land in Lawrence County, which an expert said was valued at "maybe $800 an acre," was purchased by the state for a school for $45,000.

A village lot in the Lawrence County community of Hanging Rock was purchased for a school site for $15,000. A source at a high level of state government said the lot was valued at "not over $1,000."

In all three examples cited, the sales figures were arrived at in court after both the state and the landowners got independent appraisals.

Land almost anywhere in Ohio is considered to be worth at least $400 per acre. Developments, such as a new industry or a large housing development may enhance surrounding property to twice a prior amount.

The above examples indicate price boosts of 10 times and more of land values which by law can't be more than six years old. State law requires land re-appraisals every six years.

One big problem facing state agencies in land purchase is equalization of tax bases.

Kohler Retiring; Bohlen Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—Veteran diplomat Charles E. Bohlen will be leaving his post as ambassador to France and will replace Foy D. Kohler as deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs.

The White House, announcing the top-level shifts in the foreign affairs line-up Tuesday, said the 59-year-old Kohler is retiring to become a professor at the University of Miami's Center for Advanced International Studies.

There was no word on when Bohlen might be replaced in Paris. He has been home for consultations since Nov. 15.

A state court ruling several years ago established that the ad valorem percentage of real property had to be the same for commercial land as it is for residential land.

But Ohio has no statewide law for equalizing ad valorem taxes. County governments set land values for tax purposes. Generally, this ranges from 30 per cent to as high as 55 per cent.

That means that a piece of land with a real value of $1,000, is considered to be taxable at $300 in a county with a 30 per cent assessment rule. The local rate of tax mills per dollar is then multiplied by the taxable value figure.

The problem of values put on land needed for education purposes was compounded a few years ago by passage of the Ohio School Building Assistance Program. Under this program the Ohio department of Education provides school districts a "lock and key" job on new school construction.

Under this program, school districts decide general location of new schools by population density. The state then takes over, buying a site, taking bids on and having a facility constructed, inspecting and accepting the completed product, then delivering the complete package back to the school districts.

See No Move Against France On Old Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Treasury officials say no move is afoot to demand repayment of France's $6.85 billion World War I debt as urged by Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y.

Wolff's demand for new U.S. attempts to collect the French debt came in the wake of President Charles de Gaulle's call last week for a worldwide gold standard. At the same time the French leader criticized what he called a U.S. attempt to control European industry through investments.

Treasury officials said politics and the world economic system prevent the United States from demanding the principal and interest France still owes this country from World War I. They said no moves have been made to collect it and none are anticipated.

The debate over the French debt is not new. It was lively a few years ago when France announced her policy to buy at least $34 million in U.S. gold monthly. She bought more than $1.48 billion in gold during 1965 and 1966 but has purchased none since September 1966.

U.S. officials noted that France is only 1 of 17 countries which still owe the United States money from World War I and said it would be wrong to single out the French for payment when the United Kingdom owes more—$9.76 billion.

They also said the only real weapon to enforce the demand would be refusal to sell gold to France, a move they claimed would shake confidence in the dollar and undermine the present world money system.

France has made repayments on her World War II and post-war debts, the latest a $70.8 million advance in September 1966. She now owes about $300 million on this debt, having repaid about $1.85 billion since 1947.

As of last June 30 the 17 World War I debtors owed the United States $21.35 billion in principal and interest. Only Finland was current in her payments.

Ohio Blooms With 1968 'Candidates'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio seems to be a state blooming with possible favorite sons.

Ohio Republicans have pledged themselves to Gov. James A. Rhodes, who likely will carry a favorite son banner to the 1968 GOP National Convention.

And Sen. Stephen M. Young, Ohio Democrat, has stated that he may enter his own name in the May primary as favorite son. Young said, however, that if President Johnson seeks reelection he will support him.

Now, enter Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio.

Hays said Monday that if President Johnson does not permit his name to be entered in Ohio's presidential primary, he may decide to enter his own as a favorite son candidate to the Democratic National Convention.

"My own recommendation," Hays said, "is that President Johnson permit his name to be entered. It is my belief that the state (Democratic) organization would support him."

Young has stated, Hays said, that Johnson was not popular in Ohio. However, the congressman added, "President Johnson ran a million votes ahead of Sen. Young" in 1964.

"If the White House is willing," Hays said, "I would not mind running against anyone in the primary election who opposed President Johnson."

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative

Several laws will become effective the week of Dec. 3. These laws were passed by the last session of the Ohio General Assembly.

Am. H. B. 97 revises the entire banking code; states the purpose of the code is to be: (1) to delegate administrative discretion to the division of banks to assure that supervision of state chartered banks will be flexible and readily responsive to changes in economic conditions and banking practices; (2) to protect the interests of depositors, creditors, shareholders, and the general public in all Ohio banks; (3) to permit banks to improve services for the convenience and needs of their customers; (4) to increase the permissible scope of business judgment by bank management, and (5) to clarify and modernize the banking law; incorporates most sections of the general corporation law, where not in practices and requirements applicable to banks to conform to the general corporation law or the national banking law.

Am. H. B. 742 broadens the coverage of the law providing for vacating or setting aside a criminal judgment or sentence and makes several other changes in the present law.

Am. Sub. H. B. 654 requires licensing of establishments for slaughtering cattle, sheep, swine and goats, and processing meat; establishes a schedule of license fees based on number of animals slaughtered or processed; requires payment of both the processing and slaughtering fees by establishments engaged in combined operations; repeals the present license fee based on voluntary inspection; exempts federally inspected establishments, slaughter for personal use, and retail dealers who sell only inspected products directly to consumers; provides a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $300 for violation of the various provisions of the meat inspection law, or not less than $200 nor more than $500 for a subsequent violation.

Am. H. B. 193 requires drivers' licenses and applications for licenses to contain the social security number of the licensee or applicant if one has been assigned, and to contain, in addition to the statutory requirements, any additional information that the registrar of motor vehicles may require; eliminates the requirement that a driver's license contain a statement of convictions and bond forfeitures in courts of record within two years prior to the application and a space for noting future convictions and bond forfeitures.

No Parties For Lynda On Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House strained the credibility gap a bit by announcing there was nothing on the pre-nuptial party calendar tonight for Lynda Johnson and her fiancé, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb.

With 19 showers, receptions, dances, dinners and parties behind them, the famous young couple were said to be taking a mid-wedding-week break.

Most informed sources considered they had some secret surprise in store. But White House spokesmen, talking about every detail from cake to wedding day weather predictions—no precipitation—denied such rumors.

The First Family's news secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter, holding forth at daily briefings in an East wing press room, wore a large button proclaiming "Marine Power" to show where she stood. And she opened each session with a declaration: "This is a love in."

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Leona Mostello, 50, died Wednesday in an apartment fire that firemen blamed on careless smoking.

FRESHLY CUT CHRISTMAS TREES — "Eager Beaver" boys from the Pickaway County Children's Home spent a day cutting trees for Christmas. The 150 trees were cut from the tree plantation of Mead Corporation in Vinton County. The freshly-cut trees are now on sale at the children's home. The present supply of trees will be replenished this week-end when boys and girls from the home again visit the tree farm.

Woman Prof's Murder Still A Mystery

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP)—Police, stymied by the brutal murder of a mild-mannered education professor, today moved their investigation onto the area of the school campus in search of the killer.

Greene County Sheriff Russell Bradley said, however, he saw no connection between the "senseless" slaying of Dr. Ruth Hargrave, 63, Monday night and a Black Power group that has been blamed for recent racial disturbances at the predominantly Negro school.

Some school officials said Dr. Hargrave, a pioneer in training of young teachers, was opposed to the tactics of the racial extremists, but had not openly attacked them.

Bradley ruled out sex or robbery as a motive.

Dr. Hargrave apparently was buldozed with a brick. Brick fragments were found in a 20-square-foot area near the door and deputies said there were no signs of forcible entry into the teacher's residence.

Police have been able to reconstruct an account of whereabouts of Dr. Hargrave hours prior to her death—except for a 40-minute period when the murder apparently took place.

The teacher had talked to her husband in Cincinnati by telephone from 9:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. Her body was found at 10:25 p.m. by a neighbor.

Ohio May Get Building Authority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill to create a three-member Ohio Building Authority to supervise construction of state office buildings was recommended for approval Tuesday by the House Finance Committee.

The bill has no connection with a $140 million bond issue proposed Tuesday by State Finance Director Richard L. Krabach. His proposal includes $40 million for new state office buildings.

House Bill 995 would give the building authority the power to issue and sell bonds to private firms or to the state insurance fund of the Ohio industrial commission.

Fire Destroys Toledo Company

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Fire destroyed the Custer Antique and Investment Co. and damaged two other companies located in the same building Tuesday, leaving damages estimated at $400,000.

Firemen said the fire erupted in a faulty heating plant. One fireman was injured, not seriously, as some 60 firemen battled the blaze.

Soldier Joe Smith Now Civilian Again

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Joe A. Smith, the soldier the Army lost in its filing system for 18 months, is a real civilian today and says "it's a great feeling."

Without comment, the Army put Smith, 23, through its separation processing Tuesday at the Oakland Army Base.

Following Army instructions, he had waited at his Brownsville, Calif. home, standing by for special orders following basic training in 1965 at Ft. Hood, Tex.

After 18 months of waiting, at home with his wife, Glenda, Smith put on his uniform and reported at the Oakland base last June to ask for his discharge.

"It was quite a sweat, but now it's all over, and everything's all right," said Smith after emerging Tuesday from the base with his separation papers.

"Now I want to find me a job here in the Bay area."

Smith's adventure began when he went to his home on 30-day leave. The Army sent him a message there telling him to stand by for special orders.

While he waited Smith took a logging job at $130 a week. The Army's monthly allotment check for $92.50 kept coming to his wife, plus an $18.50 U.S. savings bond every three months.

The American Civil Liberties Union took up Smith's cause, contending he had followed the Army's orders precisely.

While the ACLU took the case to court, Smith was assigned to the 6th Army headquarters at the Presidio as a runner and promoted to private first class.

As federal Judge Robert C. Peckham issued a show cause order last Friday for the Army to explain why Smith should not be released, the Army announced he would be discharged.

Smith said he understood the Army would make no claim for the allotment payments to his wife.

"In fact, when everything's computed I should have back pay coming," Smith said.

Florida Land Firm Suspended

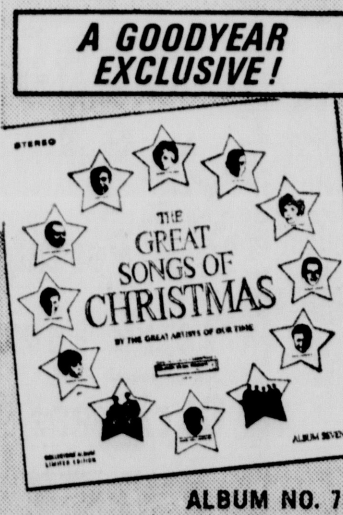

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Commerce Director J. Gordon Pelletier said Tuesday the Ohio Division of Securities is looking into the operations of a real estate firm which has sold property in Florida to thousands of persons in this state.

The firm, Gulf American Corp., was suspended for 30 days by the state of Florida so auditors could check the company's books. Pelletier said Gulf American is represented in Ohio on an independent contract basis by preferred Properties, Inc., of Cleveland.

Boy Drowns In Ohio River

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two small brothers tumbled off the steps leading from their backyard to the Ohio River Tuesday and one of them drowned.

Police said the boys' mother, Mrs. Ora Gangs, 28, managed to pull her 6-year-old son Eugene to safety. John Green, 3, drowned.

Pistons Edge Past Rockets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The baskets came in bunches for Bing, Baylor and Boozer.

Dave Bing, held to 11 points through three quarters and on the bench in the fourth period until 4:49 remained, scored 12 of Detroit's last 14 points as the Pistons edged the San Diego Rockets 111-110 in the first game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader in New York.

Elgin Baylor flipped in eight points in overtime, including what proved to be the winning basket, as the Los Angeles Lakers downed the 76ers 128-122 in Philadelphia.

Bob Boozer sank two field goals in the last 31 seconds and led the Chicago Bulls to a 105-104 victory over the Cincinnati Royals at Evansville, Ind.

In the only other NBA games, the Knickerbockers drubbed Baltimore 148-117 in the second game at New York and San Francisco upended Seattle 133-121 at Oakland.

Muskies Top Chaparrals

Regulation time was over, the score was tied and Dallas' Bob Verna missed two free throws. The first overtime was over, the score still was tied and Minnesota's Mel Daniels missed a free throw.

The second overtime was over, the score still was tied and Minnesota's Gary Keller missed a free throw. But finally the drought ended, Keller sank his second shot and the Muskies beat the Chaparrals 136-135 in an American Basketball Association game at Dallas.

The close victory kept the Muskies atop the Eastern Division by one-half game over Indiana, while Dallas is in third place in the Western Division. Daniels topped the Minnesota scorers with 43 points while Verna led Dallas with 43 points.

In other ABA games, Pittsburgh beat Denver 101-98, New Orleans topped Houston 112-97 and Indiana downed New Jersey 121-106.

Death Toll In Bridge Collapse 21

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The toll in the collapse of a huge bridge under construction over a canyon just north of Mexico City stood at 21 confirmed dead today, but authorities predicted the toll would go higher.

Estimates of the number of workmen killed ranged from 30 to 70. The sole survivor, Angel Gutierrez Carroga, jumped into a tree on the canyon face at the collapse and was hospitalized in critical condition.

Fifteen bodies were recovered before operations were suspended for the night Tuesday, but searcher said they had located six more under the tangled steel, concrete and wood.

Mexico City newspapers speculated that faulty materials may have led to the collapse of the 395-foot "Universidad de Anahuac" bridge, but there was no official explanation of the cause.

The center span of the bridge, in Tecamachalo, just north of the Mexico City line, fell 300 feet into the Loma del Negro canyon Monday night.

The Department of Public Works in the state of Mexico said it thought the Federal Ministry of Public Works was supervising the project, but the ministry said the bridge was a private project not supervised by it.

Houston Top AP Player

NEW YORK (AP) — If the Cleveland Browns go on to win the Century Division title the big play that Jim Houston made last Sunday could turn out to be the most important of the season.

Cleveland led New York 17-7 in the fourth quarter but the Giants were moving. They had the ball on the Browns' 24 when Fran Tarkenton dropped back to pass.

Tarkenton's intended target was Aaron Thomas, running a sideline pattern, but Houston, the Browns' left linebacker, picked off the ball and ran 79 yards for the touchdown that wrapped it up for Cleveland.

Houston also blocked a Pete Gogolak field goal attempt from the 50 in the first quarter. His performance in the Browns' 24-14 victory made Houston The Associated Press' choice as Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

NEW YORK (AP) — Otis Taylor, Kansas City's talented flanker, has moved into a tie with Oakland's Hewitt Dixon for the American Football League's pass reception lead.

But that didn't do Len Dawson, the KC quarterback, much good.

Dawson, the passing leader for most of the season, slipped to second place behind Oakland's Daryle Lamonia according to AFL statistics released today. Lamonia's 26 touchdown passes lead the league.

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative

Several laws will become effective the week of Dec. 3. These laws were passed by the last session of the Ohio General Assembly.

Am. H. B. 97 revises the entire banking code; states the purpose of the code is to be; (1) to delegate administrative discretion to the division of banks to assure that supervision of state chartered banks will be flexible and readily responsive to changes in economic conditions and banking practices; (2) to protect the interests of depositors, creditors, shareholders, and the general public in all Ohio banks; (3) to permit banks to improve services for the convenience and needs of their customers; (4) to increase the permissible scope of business judgment by bank management, and (5) to clarify and modernize the banking law; incorporates most sections of the general corporation law, where not in practices and requirements are consistent with the banking code; makes many corporate practices and requirements applicable to banks to conform to the general corporation law or the national banking law.

Am. H. B. 742 broadens the coverage of the law providing for vacating or setting aside a criminal judgment or sentence and makes several other changes in the present law.

Am. Sub. H. B. 654 requires licensing of establishments for slaughtering cattle, sheep, swine and goats, and processing meat; establishes a schedule of license fees based on number of animals slaughtered or processed; requires payment of both the processing and slaughtering fees by establishments engaged in combined operations; repeals the present license fee based on voluntary inspection; exempts federally inspected establishments, slaughter for personal use, and retail dealers who sell only inspected products directly to consumers; provides a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $300 for violation of the various provisions of the meat inspection law, or not less than $200 nor more than $500 for a subsequent violation.

Am. H. B. 193 requires drivers' licenses and applications for licenses to contain the social security number of the licensee or applicant if one has been assigned, and to contain, in addition to the statutory requirements, any additional information that the registrar of motor vehicles may require; eliminates the requirement that a driver's license contain a statement of convictions and bond forfeitures in courts of record within two years prior to the application and a space for noting future convictions and bond forfeitures.

Westfall '5' Continues Quest For Mythical Cage Title

Westfall, already owning victories over Teays Valley and Circleville, hosts the third county school, Logan Elm Friday as the Mustangs continue their quest for the mythical Pickaway County cage crown.

In other Friday night basketball games involving area teams, Teays Valley travels to Pleasant View and Laurelville makes the long trek to Piketon. Both are league games for the schools.

On Saturday, Westfall plays at Hamilton Twp., Laurelville hosts Ames Bern and Logan Elm hosts New Lexington St. Aloisius.

Although both Westfall and Logan Elm are members of the Scioto Valley Conference, the game Friday will not count in the league standings.

THE six SVC basketball teams normally only schedule each other once during the season. The conference coaches generally follow a policy that if two teams should meet twice, in one season, the second game will count as the league game.

A return match between the Braves and the Mustangs is billed Jan. 26 at Logan Elm High School and will be the league game.

Westfall Coach Paul Hoskins has experience, good size, a tenacious defensive unit and good scoring potential in his first year as the Mustang cage leader.

In Andy Hamman, Charlie Palmer, Tony Lightly and Ed Cornwell, he has four starters back from last year's squad. Ronnie Fletcher, a senior letterman, has earned the fifth starting spot on the team.

With the Ronnie and Charles Ward on the bench, Hoskins has two experienced substitutes he can call on, while junior Gene Carrey has been steadily improving according to reports from the Mustang corral.

First year mentor Chuck Pritchard has a promising squad but it lacks experience.

Cincinnati Reds Schedule Busy

CINCINNATI (AP)— Cincinnati Reds fans will have a chance to see their team in action against each of its National League rivals by the end of next May.

The schedule includes nine Saturday night games—seven more than in 1967, and games on Memorial Day and Labor Day. Altogether, the Reds will play on 60 night and 18 afternoons during their 12 home stands.

The Reds also announced an addition to their office staff Tuesday. Robert Farrell, ticket director for the St. Louis Cardinals the past two years, will be the Reds' first director of group sales.

Packers-Rams Game Analyzed

NEW YORK (AP) — The clash of the Los Angeles Rams and the Green Bay Packers in the Memorial Coliseum Saturday afternoon shapes up as the big defensive battle of the season in the National Football League.

The Rams rank first in rushing defense, allowing an average of 76 yards a game in the first 12 games.

Vince Lombardi's battle-tested defensive warriors are first in total defense, yielding 230 yards a game, and also first in pass defense, giving up 90 yards a game.

Bing Devine Back on Job With Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bing Devine is back with the St. Louis Cardinals team he helped build into a world baseball champion and then watched from New York.

Cardinal owner August A. Busch Jr. announced Tuesday that Devine had been hired as general manager to replace Stan Musial, who asked to leave because of business and personal matters. Johnny Murphy was named acting general manager of the New York Mets, replacing Devine.

Devine, a long-time member of the Cardinal organization, traded for such mainstays as the 1967 World Series champs as Curt Flood, Lou Brock and Julian Javier. It was while Devine was general manager that the Cardinals developed players like Tim Lincecum, Mike Shannon and Dal Maxvill.

Devine stressed that he returned to the Cardinals because of personal considerations rather than for economic reasons. Even as general manager of the Mets Devine lived in the St. Louis area during the off-season.

He went to the New York Mets in 1964 as the result of a squabble with Cardinal officials. The late Johnny Keane, then Cardinal manager wound up as manager of the New York Yankees, the team St. Louis beat in the 1964 World Series.

Musial was in Acapulco, Mexico, vacationing with his wife when the reappointment of Devine was announced. Busch said Musial came to him just before the baseball meetings in Mexico two weeks ago and asked to be relieved. He said he couldn't devote full time to the job.

The death of Musial's partner in the restaurant business, Julius "Biggie" Garagnani, was a factor in Musial's decision, Busch indicated. Musial will remain with the club as senior vice president.

Wimbledon Dispute Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Kramer, once the czar of pro tennis, predicted today that the world's leading amateur players will defy their national organizations and back Wimbledon to the hilt in its move for an open tournament.

"I am positive that men such as Arthur Ashe, Charlie Pasarell and Cliff Richey, who form the guts of our Davis Cup team, and Billie Jean King, the queen of women's tennis, would risk suspension and play in an open tournament at Wimbledon," Kramer added.

"That's not all. I think you'll find the same sort of uprising in Australia, France, Italy and other countries where big time tennis is played."

"All the players I've spoken with have the greatest admiration for the Wimbledon plan to hold an open tournament. They are ready to give full support."

British Lawn Tennis Association authorities, who conduct the biggest tournament of them all, announced earlier this year that they would throw the 1968 Wimbledon event open to amateurs and pros—in defiance of the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

Deny Sports Arena Has Been Sold

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A report circulated today that Jerry Wolman, financially-plagued owner of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles, had sold the $10 million sports arena he had built for ice hockey and basketball.

However, a source close to Wolman said "there was no truth to the rumor" that the Spectrum had been sold to one or more officials of the Matthew McCloskey Construction Co., which built the arena.

Princeton Tops, Despite Dropping Off Top 10 List

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Princeton dropped out of the Top Ten in The Associated Press college basketball poll this week, but take it from Jack Kraft, Villanova coach, the Ivy League champions rank with the best.

Princeton gained national prominence during the senior year of All-America Bill Bradley. They finished third to UCLA in the 1965 NCAA championship postseason tourney with Bradley setting a single game NCAA record of 58 points against Wichita State.

"This team is better than the Bill Bradley teams," Kraft said after the Tigers had demolished his Villanova boys 77-52 at Princeton Tuesday night.

"I don't know what you can do to beat this club," Kraft continued. "I don't know of any other team in the country that has three better shooters than Joe Heiser, Geoff Petrie and John Haarlof. And those big fellows, Chris Thomforde and John Hummer kill you under the boards."

Heiser scored 19 points, Petrie 18 and Haarlof 14 as the Tigers routed the Wildcats. "I've got a good club, too," Kraft said. "This is the worst defeat I've ever suffered with this much talent."

Princeton's ruthless efficiency against Villanova after a three-point squeaker over Army last week overshadowed the surprise 64-61 victory of Miami of Ohio over sixth-ranked Dayton and the easy opening game victory of 10th-ranked Boston College over Dartmouth 116-69.

In other major games Tuesday, Notre Dame beat Wisconsin 81-73, Kansas State downed Minnesota 81-56, Wichita State whipped Mississippi State 97-67, Davidson crushed Furman 95-68, Marshall edged Morehead 79-78 and Southwestern Louisiana became a giant killer of the small colleges by downing Baylor 80-70 for its second win over a major team.

Two free throws by sophomore Bob Carlton with 18 seconds left assured the Miami

Ex-Coach Dies

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Harold I. Zimmerman, former football and basketball coach at Haverford College, Ursinus College and Millersville, Pa., State, died Tuesday. He was 76.

Redskins of their upset over Dayton on the Flyers' home court. Don May, Dayton star, was held to six points in the first half although he got 18 in the second half for a total of 24. Fred Foster paced Miami with 22.

Coach Bob Cousy cleared his Boston College bench as the Eagles routed Dartmouth at Newton, Mass. Terry Driscoll was high for BC with 16 points.

Oklahoma State scored a 61-52 road triumph over Arkansas. In home court victories, Boston University downed Connecticut 79-72, Rhode Island defeated Massachusetts 76-66 and Northwestern humbled Butler 87-69.

Westfall '5' Continues Quest For Mythical Cage Title

Westfall, already owning victories over Teays Valley and Circleville, hosts the third county school, Logan Elm Friday as the Mustangs continue their quest for the mythical Pickaway County cage crown.

In other Friday night basketball games involving area teams, Teays Valley travels to Pleasant View and Laurelville makes the long trek to Piketon. Both are league games for the schools.

On Saturday, Westfall plays at Hamilton Twp., Laurelville hosts Ames Bern and Logan Elm hosts New Lexington St. Aloysius.

Although both Westfall and Logan Elm are members of the Scioto Valley Conference, the game Friday will not count in the league standings.

THE six SVC basketball teams normally only schedule each other once during the season. The conference coaches generally follow a policy that if two teams should meet twice, in one season, the second game will count as the league game.

A return match between the Braves and the Mustangs is billed Jan. 26 at Logan Elm High School and will be the league game.

Westfall Coach Paul Hoskins has experience, good size, a tenacious defensive unit and good scoring potential in his first year as the Mustang cage leader.

In Andy Hamman, Charlie Palmer, Tony Lighty and Ed Cornwell, he has four starters back from last year's squad. Ronnie Fletcher, a senior letterman, has earned the fifth starting spot on the team.

With the Ronnie and Charles Ward on the bench, Hoskins has two experienced substitutes he can call on, while junior Gene Carfrey has been steadily improving according to reports from the Mustang corral.

First year mentor Chuck Pritchard has a promising squad but it lacks experience.

ONLY Dale Jenne, senior forward, is back from last year's

Cincinnati Reds Schedule Busy

CINCINNATI (AP)— Cincinnati Reds fans will have a chance to see their team in action against each of its National League rivals by the end of next May.

The schedule includes nine Saturday night games—seven more than in 1967, and games on Memorial Day and Labor Day. Altogether, the Reds will play on 60 night and 18 afternoons during their 12 home stands.

The Reds also announced an addition to their office staff Tuesday. Robert Farrell, ticket director for the St. Louis Cardinals the past two years, will be the Reds' first director of group sales.

Packers-Rams Game Analyzed

NEW YORK (AP) — The clash of the Los Angeles Rams and the Green Bay Packers in the Memorial Coliseum Saturday afternoon shapes up as the big defensive battle of the season in the National Football League.

The Rams rank first in rushing defense, allowing an average of 76 yards a game in the first 12 games.

Vince Lombardi's battle-tested defensive warriors are first in total defense, yielding 230 yards a game, and also first in pass defense, giving up 90 yards a game.

Bing Devine Back on Job With Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bing Devine is back with the St. Louis Cardinals team he helped build into a world baseball champion and then watched from New York.

Cardinal owner August A. Busch Jr. announced Tuesday that Devine had been hired as general manager to replace Stan Musial, who asked to leave because of business and personal matters. Johnny Murphy was named acting general manager of the New York Mets, replacing Devine.

Devine, a long-time member of the Cardinals organization, traded for such mainstays of the 1967 World Series champs as Curt Flood, Lou Brock and Julian Javier. It was while Devine was general manager that the Cardinals developed players like Tim Lincecum, Mike Shannon and Dal Maxvill.

Devine stressed that he returned to the Cardinals because of personal considerations rather than for economic reasons. Even as general manager of the Mets Devine lived in the St. Louis area during the off-season.

He went to the New York Mets in 1964 as the result of a squabble with Cardinal officials. The late Johnny Keane, then Cardinal manager, wound up as manager of the New York Yankees, the team St. Louis beat in the 1964 World Series.

Musial was in Acapulco, Mexico, vacationing with his wife when the reappointment of Devine was announced. Busch said Musial came to him just before the baseball meetings in Mexico two weeks ago and asked to be relieved. He said he couldn't devote full time to the job.

The death of Musial's partner in the restaurant business, Julius "Biggie" Garagnani, was a factor in Musial's decision, Busch indicated. Musial will remain with the club as senior vice president.

Wimbledon Dispute Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Kramer, once the czar of pro tennis, predicted today that the world's leading amateur players will defy their national organizations and back Wimbledon to the hilt in its move for an open tournament.

"I am positive that men such as Arthur Ashe, Charlie Pasarell and Cliff Richey, who form the guts of our Davis Cup team, and Billie Jean King, the queen of women's tennis, would risk suspension and play in an open tournament at Wimbledon," Kramer added.

"That's not all. I think you'll find the same sort of uprising in Australia, France, Italy and other countries where big time tennis is played."

"All the players I've spoken with have the greatest admiration for the Wimbledon plan to hold an open tournament. They are ready to give full support."

British Lawn Tennis Association authorities, who conduct the biggest tournament of them all, announced earlier this year that they would throw the 1968 Wimbledon event open to amateurs and pros—in defiance of the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

Dayton Flyers Shot Down by Miami

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was weird night in Ohio college basketball.
In major upset, the Dayton Flyers were shot down. And at Gambier, the Lords of Kenyon put on a snazzy display of record breaking against Wilmington.
Miami's Redskins went on the warpath Tuesday in Dayton fieldhouse, dumping the Flyers 64-61. Dayton was No. 6 in the Associated Press national rankings.
Much of the credit for the upset goes to Miami Sophs Bob Carlton and Glen Pryor who hemmed in Dayton's big Don May and allowed him only six points in the first half. May, however, ended up with 24 for the game.

Neither team led by more than four points and the Redskins-beaten six straight times by Dayton-held a 31-29 half-time lead.
Carlton's two free throws with 18 seconds left in the game sparked Miami's victory. Fred Foster's 22 points for Miami added to the cause as the Redskins went 2-0 while the Flyers evened off at 1-1.

At Gambier, Kenyon handed Wilmington a 122-83 shellacking. Wilmington's high scorer, Bill Klopfer, got 23 points-19 on foul shots -- while John Rinka paced Kenyon with 35 points. Rinka now has 82 points in two games, and the Lords are averaging 113 points a game.
The Lords broke three school records, turning in the highest score ever, scoring 49 field goals, another mark, attempting 102, one more for the statistics book.

In other games, Ohio University, initially troubled by cold shooting, rallied midway in the first half to claim an 81-59 victory over Otterbein.
Ohio was down 23-19 before scoring 11 straight points to take a 30-25 lead at intermission. Mark McClintick's 25 points topped the Bobcats.
In the others: Ashland, last year's champion defensive team among small colleges, was in atop form, defeating Malone 56-33; Wittenberg scored 60 points in a big second half and bombed Capital 99-65; Marletta invaded West Virginia Wesleyan and came home with a 97-56 conquest; Charlie Claggett scored 26 points and pulled down 21 rebounds to lead Denison to an 81-59 triumph over Muskingum; and Cedarville scored the first basket and was never headed in downing Northwood of Indiana 99-65.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Tors, who in "Daktari," "Flipper" and "Gentle Ben" has created more animal stars than most producers ever achieve with humans, plans to move into a world more dangerous than the African jungle—daytime television.

In that world of specialty programming, soap operas seem to go on forever. Then there are the reruns of old nighttime programs. And finally, there are the game and panel shows. These are the shows that, unlike the soaps, are given little time to stay around and build an audience. And it is a game show that Tors and his associates will unveil on ABC Dec. 13.

Tors' maiden daytime effort is called "Treasure Isle," and claims to be played out in the most expensive "set" ever created for television—a man-made island and "lagoon"—really a pool loaded with electronic gadgets for special effects.

"Daytime television," said Seymour Adler, an executive of the production company, "is completely dominated by shows made inside studios. This one will be completely taped outside of studios."

"It is important, Adler thinks, because he did some research and found that program shot a location almost invariably received good audience ratings.

The island and lagoon were built near Palm Beach, Fla., and contributed by John MacArthur, millionaire owner of a nearby resort hotel and other real estate. It cost more than $500,000.

This has been dictated less by love of show business than a desire to promote the location and the hotel—and to help attract more show business from New York and Hollywood. Tors has been a Florida booster for several seasons and has been producing both feature movies and TV series in studios near Miami.

In a fancy setting, contestants will play a rather routine TV game—encountering obstacles, bumping into each other in boats, following clues and, finally, digging for treasure.

"It can't miss," said Adler. People in cold climates will just love looking at tropical Florida.

Suppose they like the palm trees and lagoon but hate the game?

"Well," said Adler, "I really don't have much time to watch TV but I think it's a great game. It will bring people to Florida and show business to Florida."

CBS's rerun of a national drivers test was a welcome refresher Tuesday night for winter drivers. Curiously, it was more helpful on second sight when the viewer was not preoccupied setting down answers and trying to build up a passing score.

Recommended tonight: "Aladdin," 7:30-8:30 EST, children's adaptation of the classic by the Prince Street Players. "Dear Friends," CBS, 9-11, original drama by Reginald Rose, with Patricia Barry and James Daly; "Jack Paar," A Funny Thing Happened Everywhere, NBC, 9-10.

LE Board Tours Industrial Arts Department at School

The Logan Elm Board of Education began its December meeting with a tour of the shop building to consider machine replacement and additional equipment purchase for the industrial arts department.

In official action taken by the board, it was moved to reinvest $15,542.78 remaining in the bond retirement fund.

Nelson Jones, chairman of the Booster Club budget committee gave a report on the board. The board agreed to pay $2,400 indebtedness for bleachers and assume the cost of an outdoor multipurpose blacktop area for basketball, tennis and parking.

Walter Parker Jr., was present at the session to discuss the aspects of the school student insurance policies.

The board adopted a resolution to contract with Lincoln National in order for school employees to participate in tax sheltered annuity pay if they desired.

John Henn, executive head, gave reports on the sanitary and safety inspections of the district and the inservice training program for elementary teachers.

May 26, 1968 was approved as the date of Baccalaureate and May 27 as the date for commencement. The board okayed the purchase of folding tables for student use.

It was agreed to improve and expand the parking area at the school. The board reappropriated $9,650.11 to cover expenditures for the year.

Pertinent needs of the district were discussed and Dec. 29 was set as the date for a special meeting on appropriations for 1968.

KofP Elects 1968 Officers

The second nomination and election of officers for the coming term was conducted Monday at Philos Lodge No. 64, Knights of Pythias.

Chancellor Commander Orren Stout announced the following were elected to the various chairs in the lodge:

Doyle Spangler, chancellor commander; Milo Wise, vice chancellor; Charles Winter, prelate; Lloyd Fisher, master of work; O. E. Barr, secretary; Raymond Reichelderfer, financial secretary; Clarence Radcliffe, treasurer; Raymond Winner, master of arms; Harry Strawser, inner guard; Gary Stout, trustee; Fred Howell, lodge deputy.

Stout announced the installation will be Jan. 8, 1968. The Grand Lodge team from Champion-Dowdall Lodge, Columbus, will conduct the installation.

Heart Patient Gains Strength

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Louis Washkansky personally thanked his surgeons Tuesday for the epochal heart transplant that is keeping him alive and sent his love to his wife.

Washkansky's doctors said he continued in a satisfactory condition, but they advised his wife, Ann, to wait a week before seeing her husband to avoid any chance of infection.

The critical hurdle for the 55-year-old wholesale grocer is expected this weekend, when his body may indicate whether it will accept or reject the heart of 25-year-old Denise Ann Darvall, who died in an auto accident.

Interview Defector Inside Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — A U.S. military aide who flew to Cuba with his 4-year-old son last May received two foreign newsmen in his pleasant suburban Havana home Tuesday and said he came here "for strictly personal reasons."

Army Maj. Richard H. Pearce, the 36-year-old defector, was chief aide to Lt. Gen. Thomas W. Dunn, 4th Army commander, at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., when he disappeared. Pearce had a top secret security clearance.

Members of Pearce's family have been saying that he fled to Cuba to regain custody of his son, Richard, and not for political reasons.

When Pearce, a decorated veteran of the Vietnam war, arrived in Cuba the Communist party newspaper Granma published a statement under his signature saying he had come "for reasons of conscience."

Pearce said Tuesday people could interpret the statement any way they pleased "but nothing has been said about political conscience or political reasons."

His son was not at home, and Pearce declined to discuss him. But associates of his said the boy attends a government kindergarten. Pearce himself is teaching English at Maximo Gorki language school. Sources at the school described him as quiet and conservative.

The boy was awarded to his mother in 1965 by a divorce decree in Houston. The mother, now Mrs. John C. Mitchell, 25, has been trying to get the child back from Cuba.

In Vietnamese, Tet Nhat means "first day of the return of spring." The observance of the festival of Tet occurs in January or February.

Judge Jails Arkansas State Police Chief

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — State Police Director Lynn A. Davis went to jail Tuesday and said he was prepared to stay "until hell freezes over" rather than name an informant who gave him information that led to gambling raids here.

Davis, however, may win his release today. His attorneys were expected to petition the Arkansas Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus to free him from Pulaski County Jail.

Circuit Judge William J. Kirby held Davis in contempt of court Tuesday for refusing to tell the Pulaski County grand jury and the judge the name of an informant whose information led Davis to conduct raids in which 12 persons were arrested on gambling charges Sept. 9.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's going to answer the questions or stay in jail until he makes up his mind to do it," Kirby said.

Davis said he would not divulge his informant's name because revealing confidential sources "puts law officers out of business." He also had said previously that identifying his informant might place that person in jeopardy.

"I'm prepared to stay here," Davis told reporters. He was permitted to leave his cell for a news conference in the jailhouse.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, visibly angered, flew back to Little Rock from a northwest Arkansas speaking tour to join Davis at the news conference. The governor pledged his support.

"No one can be pleased at this other than the gamblers and the hardened criminals," he said.

Rockefeller said he believed the jailing of the 33-year-old Davis was political harassment aimed at both himself and Davis, a former FBI agent who was appointed to his position last August.

"I find it hard to believe otherwise," Rockefeller said.

The governor said requiring law officers to reveal the names of their informants would lead to anarchy and "absolutely demoralize law enforcement officers in the United States."

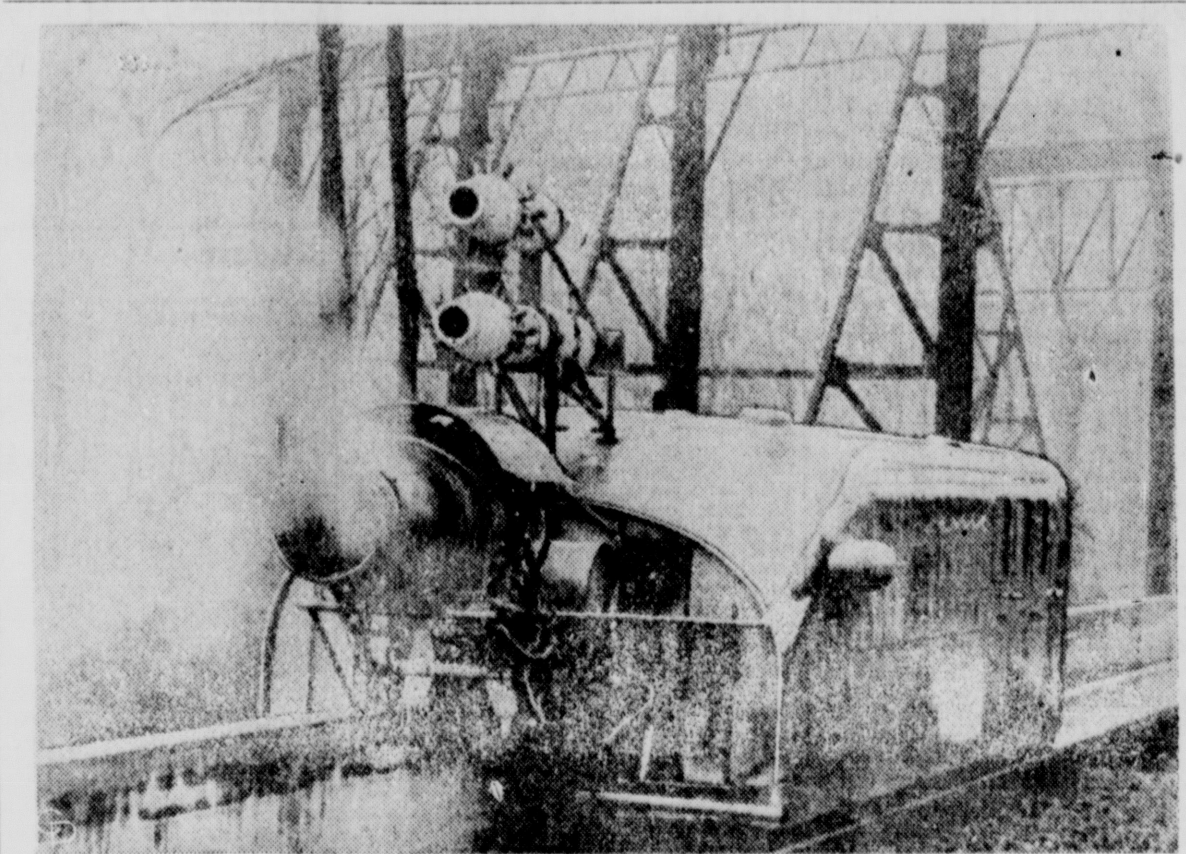

Christmas Seals Only Income For TB Assn.

The contribution for the Christmas Seals recently received by area residents is the only source of income for the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

Officers of local organizations urged that contributions be mailed before the busy days of the holiday begin.

"Use your seals on Christmas packages and cards to show you care," officials say.

Persons making contributions by check should make them payable to the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

Local Breeders To Show In Polled Cattle Classic

Harold Riffel, Harold Strawser and Carson L. Horton, Pickaway County Polled Hereford breeders, will be showing at the 1967 National Polled Hereford Show and Sale Dec. 11, 12 and 13 at Columbus.

The event will be the largest Polled Hereford show ever held. A total of 459 of America's finest cattle from coast to coast have been entered in the 45th annual classic.

This year's National Event at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus will be the largest exhibition of any beef breed in the world in 1967.

The 86 herds with cattle entered represent 22 states, stretching from New York, Maryland, Virginia and Georgia on the East Coast to California, Oregon and Washington on the Pacific Coast. Host state Ohio is the pace setter with 21 exhibitors.

The judging of females is to start at 9 a. m., Dec. 11, and the judging of bulls at 8 a. m. Dec. 12. The 51st annual National Polled Hereford Sale of some 60 selected animals from the show entries will start at 10 a. m. Dec. 13. Both the judging and sale will be in the spacious new beef cattle show arena at the Ohio State Fairgrounds. The Columbus Sheraton Hotel is headquarters for the event. Attendance is free and the general public is invited.

Boy Collapses, Dies at Game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 14-year-old boy collapsed and died Tuesday night during a church league basketball game. He had played about five minutes before collapsing on his team's bench.

The coroner's preliminary report said the boy, John Davis, apparently died of natural causes.

25 YEARS AGO on Dec. 2, 1942, the first nuclear reactor achieved the world's first sustained chain reaction and the atomic age was born in this building, Stagg Field at the University of Chicago. It is gone now, but a plaque marks the spot where the late Enrico Fermi and his secret band of scientists built their scientific milestone. The only photo of the reactor made during construction shows it (right) as the 19th layer of graphite was being added. Alternate layers were uranium metal and uranium oxide, spaced by layers of "dead" graphite. Layer 18, containing uranium, is almost covered here. In all, 57 layers were added, about one beyond critical or operating dimensions. The first atom bomb was detonated July 16, 1945, near Alamogordo, N.M., and 21 days later, on Aug. 16, one was dropped over Hiroshima. It was still the world's best kept secret.
